Jobless Pay Plan Is Sent To Congress

Eisenhower Calls For Additional Aid To Idle Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress Tuesday for a temporary 50 per cent extension of jobless payments to relieve hardship among workers experiencing prolonged unemployment.

The additional federal payments would go to idle workers running out of regular unemployment insurance benefits.

They would get federal payments at the same rate for half as long again. Thus, if a worker got idle pay 26 weeks, he could get an additional 13 weeks payments, if still unable to find a job.

The White House estimated the supplemental, emergency plan would cost around 500 to 600 million dollars, repayable by the states. Officials calculated that 2 to 2½ million workers would exhaust regular payments and become eligible for the extra payments.

More Security For Worker
In his message and recommended legislation to Congress the President said:

"I believe that these workers and their families should be enabled temporarily to receive weekly benefits for a longer period than is now in effect so that in the current economic situation they and their families can obtain a greater measure of security."

It represented the first time the federal government has proposed augmenting jobless benefits paid under the 20-year federal-state employment security system. The system is regularly financed by employers through a payroll tax.

However, the President emphasized the temporary, emergency nature of his plan. He said it does not substitute for his repeated proposals that states improve the amount and duration of their idle payments on a permanent basis.

Most States Have Reserves

Most states have ample reserves to pay the added benefits on their own. The states have an aggregate of more than eight billion dollars in reserves. But while they have changed the amount and duration of benefits from time to time, they could not pay, on their own, the temporarily extended benefits, as proposed by the President, without enabling state legislation.

Obviously, the administration felt it would take too long for states to call special legislative sessions to extend regular benefit duration.

Airliner Crash Probed; 9 Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Investigators probed the widely scattered debris and interviewed survivors Tuesday in their search for the cause of a Braniff Airways plane crash which took nine lives and injured 15 persons.

The Panama-bound DCTC crashed and exploded shortly after takeoff at 12:04 a.m. It fell and blew apart with a tremendous roar in a marshy area about 4½ miles west-northwest of Miami International Airport.

Six survivors were listed in critical condition.

George Collar, Civil Aeronautics Board investigator heading the probe, said the field investigation probably will require two weeks. He said CAB officials have not talked with Capt. Thomas Donald George, 42, of Coral Gables, pilot of the plane. George is in critical condition with chest injuries.

Witnesses reported seeing flames belch from one of the plane's four engines just before the crash. The fuselage broke in two and the tail landed about 50 yards from the nose section.

Rescue workers were hampered by the dense brush and mud and water. Fire trucks and ambulances couldn't reach the scene. The injured were flown out by helicopter.

Atom Weapons For Bonn Voted By Parliament

BONN (AP) — West Germany's Parliament voted Tuesday night to let German soldiers have atomic weapons as part of the defense of Europe.

A vote on the bitterly fought atomic issue came shortly before midnight, climaxing a record four-day debate.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his Christian Democrat party beat back all moves by the opposition Socialists and Free Democrats to renounce nuclear arms or delay a decision on their acceptance.

Adenauer's absolute majority in the Bundestag assured him of victory before the voting on 13 measures began. But the Socialists served notice that they would not drop their campaign.

There was no roll call vote on the government motion to permit Bonn troops to be equipped with atomic weapons. It came after a show of hands rejected a Free Democrat motion to bar atomic weapons for West German troops.

The deputies were recorded on a Free Democrat motion that the Bundestag declare itself opposed to stocking atomic weapons or establishing atomic bases in either half of divided Germany. That proposal was turned down 269-194.

The debate was the longest in the Bundestag's history and was marked by frequent bitter exchanges.

Declaring the opposition was not through fighting, Socialist leader Erich Ollenhauer said his party would later bring in a bill calling for a national referendum on the atomic issue.

The 30-foot boat left here Feb. 10 but was forced back a week later by a heavy storm.

Accepted Broadcasters' Gifts, FCC Member Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Federal Communications Commission testified Tuesday that he has let the broadcasting industry pay some of his hotel bills and supply him with such things as color TV sets because he's convinced that's all a part of his job.

"I don't know of any personal misconduct and I have no confessions to make that you gentlemen don't know about," Rosel H. Hyde told the House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight.

Hyde, a Republican appointee of former President Truman, also told the House group that facilities supplied to him by the industry help him regulate have been a source of inconvenience at times.

Take those color TV sets in his home, for instance. He said they were big, early, experimental models and a considerable nuisance to his wife.

Report Declares Union Boss Runs Hoodlum Empire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee pictured Teamster President James R. Hoffa Tuesday as a national menace — a power-hungry master of a hoodlum empire within the huge union.

The committee, in a report to the Senate, said the Teamster Union has pursued a "blatant public-be-damned philosophy" under leadership permeated by "the stench of corruption." It depicted Hoffa as a betrayer of rank-and-file workers.

Former Teamster boss Dave Beck was characterized by the Senate investigators as a miserly man "motivated by an uncontrollable greed." They said Beck is an almost pitiable figure who just couldn't resist the temptation to steal from his union.

"Dave Beck," the committee said, "brought shame and disrepute on the American labor movement."

Hoffa's Election 'Tragic'

The committee's bitter findings were keyed, however, to denunciations of Hoffa. He was accused of holding rank-and-file union members in veritable servitude and misusing millions of dollars of their union funds.

Hoffa's elevation to the presidency of this giant among American labor unions was described as "tragic for the Teamsters Union and dangerous for the country at large."

The union, with 1½ million members in the nation's transport industry, wields power that could "stop the nation's economic pulse," the report charged. It contended this power should not be in hands such as those of Hoffa and his lieutenants.

No Comment From Hoffa

Hoffa's office in Detroit said the Teamster chief had no comment on the report.

The committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), wrote its findings into a report on the first year of its search for evidence of racketeering and other evils in the labor-management field. The Senate had created the committee with a million-dollar budget — to dig out evidence as a guide to Congress in writing new laws.

McClellan announced he is drafting a bill for introduction in the Senate this week based on legislative recommendations of the committee. He said it would be his own, rather than a committee bill.

Judge Threatens To Defend Fish Pond With Rifles

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A State Supreme Court judge threatened Tuesday to use high powered rifles if necessary to defend his private fish and irrigation pond from county officials.

Justice Jesse W. Carter's ire exploded after the Marin County Board of Supervisors voted to have his four-million-gallon reservoir drained as a menace to nearby homes in Sleepy Hollow.

"I'll shoot anyone who sets foot on my property," Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich quoted the judge as telling him over the telephone.

House Votes To Increase Military Pay

Career Incentive Measure Sent To Senate, 366 To 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Tuesday passed 366-22 a bill to make military careers more attractive—with a hefty pay raise as the immediate inducement.

The bill's benefits, going to practically all servicemen with more than two years service, were estimated to cost 668 million dollars a year.

House passage was by roll call vote, sending the bill to the Senate. However, the House acted only after listening to some acid comment on the services asking for incentives to keep men in uniform while they were ordering reservists out. There also was criticism of the idea that "dollars in themselves" would induce young men to make their careers in uniform.

Draftees Excluded

The principal provisions of the bill are:

1. Pay raises, highest in the top enlisted and officer brackets, but going to practically all but officers and enlisted men in their first two years of service. Thus draftees and young officers doing obligated service would be excluded.

2. A new system of proficiency pay for enlisted men who acquire skills wanted by the military. This extra compensation could run as high as $150 a month. Each service would decide what skills, technical or military, it wants to reward.

3. Two new top pay brackets for officers and two for enlisted men. Those for officers would provide higher base pay for three and four star generals and admirals, now lumped for pay purposes with two-star officers. The enlisted grades would be actual new ranks, above those of master sergeant or navy chief petty officer.

Longevity Pay

4. Longevity pay—automatic increases for years of service—would be curtailed to this extent: after a man had remained in grade the standard number of years for promotion, but had not been promoted, he would get no additional longevity raises until he advanced in grade.

Reserve and retired personnel would benefit equally with regulars for any of the increases for which they qualified.

Dulles Warns Against Parley On Red Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States would lose its shirt, Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday, if it went to a summit meeting on the latest Russian terms.

He declared the meeting would become something much worse than a spectacle and that the U.S. government would never pay a "terribly high price."

At the same time Dulles kept the door open for further talks to give the Kremlin an opportunity to modify the conditions it has set for a summit conference.

Addressing a news conference, Dulles denounced and ridiculed a note Moscow sent Monday. The note renewed the Soviet demand for an immediate heads-of-government meeting without waiting for lower level negotiations to ease existing problems.

The Soviet note bluntly rejected a U.S. demand that German unification and conditions in Eastern Europe be discussed at the parley.

"I would say that if those terms were accepted it would turn the summit meeting into something much worse than a spectacle," Dulles said. "It would mean that on the way to the summit we would have lost our shirt."

Dulles insisted that advance talks through ambassadors or foreign ministers are an indispensable prerequisite to any meeting of world leaders.

"If it is apparent that a summit meeting could only lead to a sharpening of differences, then it is better not to have one," he said.

Dulles deplored what he called the increasingly harsh tone of Soviet notes on this matter and said that if this is a preview of the summit then it would be better to forget about such a meeting.

GOP Sentiment Shifts To Farm Support Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican opposition to a one-year freeze of farm price supports declined Tuesday under the impact of pleas from GOP candidates that a presidential veto would increase their re-election difficulties.

In a surprising shift of sentiment, the Republicans voted 17-14 in a stormy closed session of their party Policy Committee to tell President Eisenhower they hope he lets the freeze bill become law.

At the White House, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty had no comment on the action of the Senate Republicans.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has opposed the measure vigorously. Eisenhower has said it represents a 180 degree turn in the wrong direction.

When the Senate passed the bill last Friday by a 48-32 margin, 13 Republicans supported it and 28 were opposed.

Benson has contended the measure—freezing for one year major crop supports at their 1957 levels or higher—would pile up more of the farm surpluses for which the government has spent billions of dollars in disposal costs. Eisenhower is widely expected to veto the bill which Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas labeled an anti-recession measure.

While declining to confirm the results of a show of hands in the GOP policy session, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California indicated it was reasonably accurate. Knowland phoned the White House later in the day to tell Eisenhower about the development.

Knowland pointed out several of the Senate's 47 GOP members were absent from the session. He said eight or nine more had left before the vote was taken, indicating belief that a majority of Republicans still opposes the measure.

Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif.), an opponent of the freeze plan, said he remains confident the President will veto it and that veto will be sustained.

Five Die In Crash Of Private Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Five persons were killed Tuesday night in the crash of a private plane which went down in the Atlantic 2½ miles east of Hollywood, Fla.

The Coast Guard, which reported the death toll, said a sixth person is critically injured.

The dead, none of whom has been identified, are a boy, a girl, two women and a man. A seriously injured man is thought to have been the pilot.

Food Spending Rises In Face Of Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer spending for food has been rising in the face of the economic recession, the Agriculture Department reported Tuesday.

A report on the demand and price situation for agriculture said retail food sales continued a long increase during recent months and were at record levels 8 per cent above a year ago.

Steps Make Cut In Taxes More Remote

President Seeks Idle Pay Extension, Spending Speedup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday proposed more aid for people long out of work and laid plans for faster government spending to help end the economic slump.

In taking these steps, the administration veered farther away from using tax reduction as a means of stimulating the economy.

Eisenhower sent a special message to Congress calling for a 50 per cent extension of the period in which the unemployed may draw jobless benefits.

Also, Republican leaders in Congress said after a White House conference that Eisenhower will ask authority to speed up government buying by another 600 million dollars.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said this request will be in the form of a letter going Wednesday to House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.).

Eisenhower discussed his unemployment compensation plan last week with a committee representing the Governors' Conference.

Duty Of Government

In presenting it formally Tuesday, the President said the federal government has the duty of tempering the hardship suffered by workers "whose unemployment has been prolonged."

He added an optimistic note, saying he is convinced that "the need for additional assistance to these workers will be of relatively brief duration."

The White House estimated that the cost of the extension arrangement — a federal supplement of existing state benefit programs — would run to 500-600 million dollars.

Workers who have used up their benefits in states which pay for 26 weeks could collect for 13 more weeks, if they were out of work that long. In states which make payments for 20 weeks, the jobless could get the benefits for another 10.

Action On Other Fronts

In other phases of anti-recession activity:

1. Secretary of the Treasury Anderson was reported to have indicated, in conversations with congressional leaders, that opposition is growing within the administration to a tax cut.

2. Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), pushing a highway construction speedup bill, said it would be an important step "toward putting America back to work. The bill would make available 1½ billion dollars more in federal money than is now planned for this year."

3. Secretary of Commerce Weeks, asking for congressional extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, said it would help the economy by providing job insurance for 4½ million Americans. He disputed critics who say it hurts the American workman by permitting imports made by cheap foreign labor.

4. The House Appropriations Committee recommended $2,961,862,181 in new money for the Labor and Welfare departments. It said still more will be needed soon because of current economic conditions and the outlook for the future.

5. The Small Business Administration said it will waive its share of interest from loans made by banks to small business firms. Administrator Wendell Barnes said the idea was to encourage banks to give a hand to firms needing help.

GM, UAW Open Contract Talks

DETROIT (AP) — With both sides voicing hope for a peaceful settlement, General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union opened negotiations Tuesday on a new labor contract that may set a pattern for industry in a year of recession.

But they began bargaining talks far apart in their declared aims.

Smiling with apparent confidence, UAW President Walter P. Reuther, told newsmen he is "dead serious" in his demand that the big auto companies share profits with workers.

GM has not actually rejected profit-sharing in advance of bargaining but has said it wants no part of such a plan.

Heading the GM bargaining team, Louis G. Seaton, vice president for personnel, said the company will attempt to negotiate a long-term contract.

In an unfavorable bargaining position because of mounting unemployment and an over-production of cars, the union is insisting upon a short-term contract.

GOP Counterattack Hits UAW Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators fired back at Joseph L. Rauh Tuesday, accusing him of misleading the Senate Rackets Committee and abusing his position as a union lawyer.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) told the committee Rauh had repeatedly made false or misleading statements during the committee's investigation of the bitter Kohler Co. strike. Goldwater said he had had "more than enough" of it.

Rauh is counsel for the United Auto Workers, which struck the Wisconsin plumbing fixtures plant four years ago and is still on strike. Rauh accused Goldwater and Sens. Mundt (R-SD) and Butler (R-Neb.) Monday of acting unfairly in the probe.

Mundt joined the counterattack with a charge that Rauh had "shot him in the back" by denouncing him when Mundt was not present at the hearing and could not reply promptly.

"That may be fair to the ADA but it is not to me," Mundt protested. Rauh is former chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, a group which supports the principles of the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Mundt said he thought Rauh had abused his position as UAW counsel by not limiting himself to advising union witnesses. "He apparently does not like Republicans because he has been trying to make this a political convention," the senator said.

Goldwater added that some of Rauh's statements have been so erroneous and have been made so frequently that he could only conclude they were deliberate.

Fighting back, Rauh said there was an old saying that in a weak law case you should endeavor to try the opposing counsel. He charged the three GOP senators to show where they had asked one question during the five weeks of hearings that was intended to bring out anything derogatory against the Kohler Co.

Instead, Rauh said, Goldwater, Mundt and Curtis had asked thousands of questions of UAW witnesses intended to bring out replies derogatory to the union.

Five Seized In Teacher Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—Five teen-aged members of a Bronx youth gang were seized Tuesday in the slugging of a private school teacher with a baseball bat.

Four boys are Negroes, 15 to 16, the other a 17-year-old Puerto Rican. All had been suspended from public schools as trouble-makers.

Police said they are members of a street gang, the Sportsmen. Other members of the gang were sought for questioning.

The youths claimed the teacher, Arthur Santos, 36, was attacked only after he swung a baseball bat at them and missed.

Santos said half a dozen youths invaded his outdoor recreation class at Crotona Park Monday and began robbing his pupils, some of them as young as 9.

When Santos threatened to call police, he claimed, the youths turned on him and beat him with a bat they wrested from his grip. He said one of them also threatened him with a knife and that they took $16 from his pockets.

Elvis Receives Aptitude Tests

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (AP)—Thriving on his first day of Army life, Pvt. Elvis Presley waded into a series of aptitude tests Tuesday while a score of photographers and newsmen recorded every motion of the rock 'n' roll king.

The 23-year-old singer, wearing a sports jacket and slacks, made the rounds of this reception center with 21 other recruits who arrived Monday night from Memphis amid a screaming welcome from teenage girls.

He woke up at 5:30 a.m., made his bed in the usual non-professional recruit manner, ate a hearty breakfast, pulled "road guard" duty and weathered taunts of some soldiers.

Then Elvis swung into the routine of a recruit's first day here—five hours of aptitude tests, a classification interview and several lectures.

"There goes a nice kid," said 1st Sgt. Francis Johnson of La-Fayette, La. "I'll bet I don't have much trouble with him."

As Elvis and his new companions passed a barracks this morning several soldiers standing on the steps jeered: "Give us a smile, Elvis!"

Elvis obliged with a grin and then stared straight ahead.

The singer's gross income last year was almost one million dollars. He drew the $7 salary advance provided to tide over recruits until payday.

Lawyer Offers To Defend Opponent's Right To Run

BALTIMORE (AP)—James B. McCloskey, a lawyer running in Maryland's Fourth Congressional District Republican primary, offered Tuesday to defend without a fee an opponent's right to run against him.

McCloskey, former Democrat who crossed party lines to run in the all-Baltimore City district, made the offer to Louis W. Collier. The attorney general ruled Monday that Collier is barred by State law from running in the Fourth opinion is unconstitutional.

A 33-year-old credit counselor without previous political experience, Collier declared he would take court action to stay in the race against McCloskey and Pleasanton L. Conquest III.

Collier said he felt that the 1957 election law provision on which day that Collier is barred by State law from running in the Fourth opinion is unconstitutional.

Senate To Limit Road Bill Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate agreed Tuesday to limit debate on the anti-recession highway bill in a move that should bring a final vote later this week.

Under the agreement worked out by Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) and Republican Leader Knowland of California, the limit on debate will begin soon after the Senate meets at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Debate will be held to four hours on the bill, four hours on a special billboard control amendment, three hours on a utilities amendment and one hour on any other amendment.

The road-building measure, by increasing and advancing allotments, would make available to the states this year 1 1/2 billion dollars more in federal funds than are presently in the works for the national highway program.

Britons Find Ike "Keen As Mustard"

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dozen members of Britain's Parliament sized up President Eisenhower as "keen as mustard" on the problems of his job.

Sir James Henderson-Stewart, leader of the delegation, described Eisenhower that way to reporters Tuesday. He said the members of Parliament were "delighted to find him looking so extremely well, looking physically fit, and he was as keen as mustard on all the problems of his job."

He said the British lawmakers asked the President primarily about unemployment and a summit conference, and "on both he talked fully and vigorously and I think acceptably."

Money Bill Sent Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $2,861,008, 793 appropriation bill, including an additional 250 million dollars for soil bank payments, headed for President Eisenhower's desk Tuesday night.

The bill, a compromise one, cleared both the House and Senate by voice votes during the day. It carries money for a number of federal agencies.

Modern Adams Men Giving Away Ribs In Cancer Cure Search

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Men are voluntarily giving away their ribs to aid a search for cures of cancer and A-bomb radiation sickness.

These modern-day Adams walk into a hospital and let a surgeon cut out one or two ribs. The ribs are needed to supply bone marrow, the factory that makes blood.

The bone marrow then is injected into leukemia patients who have just been given terrific doses of X rays to kill their own diseased bone marrow. The hope is that the borrowed marrow may replace the sick marrow.

This treatment has not cured anyone. At best it apparently brought temporary improvements lasting four weeks to seven months, said Dr. L. M. Tocantins of Jefferson Medical College.

He spoke to science writers Tuesday during an American Cancer Society tour of research centers.

Bone marrow transplanting has succeeded in mice. Mice have lived even after being given killing doses of X rays. If they got new bone marrow. They've even lived when given bone marrow from rats.

Could bone marrow save victims of A-bombs, dying from radiation sickness that destroys bone marrow? Can injections be made to work so borrowed marrow could save leukemia patients?

If you could borrow bone marrow, then maybe many cancers could be knocked out by heavy doses of X rays, with the bone marrow saving you from the bad effects of the X rays.

These are the hopes, not yet borne out in trials on 17 leukemia patients.

Maybe they need to be given actually lethal doses of X rays, over all the body. Dr. Tocantins said. And maybe they need to get a lot more borrowed bone marrow than they have so far.

1,200 MPH Canadian Jet Flight Tested

TORONTO (AP)—A delta-winged jet interceptor, the most expensive plane ever built in Canada, Tuesday made a 35-minute test flight that ended months of tension for its designers and engineers.

The CF105 Arrow took off with a thunderous roar from Malton Airport near Toronto. Veteran test pilot Jan Zurakowski took it up at 8,000 feet while two other planes photographed its flight.

The Arrow's potential speed is estimated at 1,200 m.p.h. Zurakowski, a Polish-born World War II pilot who spent 18 months preparing for the flight, was told to keep the speed under 400 m.p.h. in the first tests.

The Arrow now is powered by twin engines produced in the United States. They will be replaced by engines developed by Orenda Engines Ltd., which is affiliated with the plane's producers, Avro Aircraft Ltd.

The Arrow was built in three years at a cost of 200 million dollars.

Ex-GI Who Flew U.S. Army In '44 Will Go On Trial

SAINT-QUENTIN, France (AP)—A GI who fled the U.S. Army in 1944 to live a secluded life with a French girl will be tried by U.S. military authorities on wartime desertion charges.

The maximum penalty facing the ex-private, Wayne Powers, 36, a native of Missouri, is death. But French authorities who hold him said Tuesday they believe there are circumstances that should move any man's heart.

Among them the French list five healthy children fathered by Powers during his 14 years with Yvette Beause, who worked in a cotton mill at nearby Mont d'Origny while Powers cooked, changed the children's diapers and kept the house clean.

He never left the house in daytime although everybody in the village seemed to know their secret.

Powers was arrested by French police Saturday. All villagers staunchly deny that any of them denounced him.

Martin Co. To Develop New Pershing Missile

Martin designated its Orlando, Fla., division to carry out the work. This will include research and development, testing, production and general coordination of launching, engineering and field training services.

Conscience-Stricken Bandits Surrender

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Two brothers-in-law who said worry over their act wouldn't let them sleep walked into the sheriff's office Monday night and told officers they were the men who held up the Mannford, Okla., state bank of $2,130 last Tuesday.

They turned over to authorities all but $165 of the money that bank officials said was taken in the holdup.

The two jailed were identified as Ernest Joice, 20, and Bill Ireland, 24, both Tulsa industrial plant workers.

Sheriff Glenn H. Brown said the men, who are married to sisters, told them they had never been in trouble before.

G-Man's Wife 'Rescues' Runaway Boy

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The wife of an FBI agent Monday brought about a reunion between a runaway Baltimore boy and his parents.

Mrs. Mary Miles, wife of Special Agent Ralph Miles, was driving to a supermarket when she saw a boy standing at the intersection of Ft. Myer drive and Arlington boulevard.

There was something about the expression on the lad's face that caused Mrs. Miles to grant his request for a lift. After a bit of conversation, she related, the boy began to cry and told her he had run away from home.

Trio Seized In Theft Of Phone Booth Coins

FREDERICK (AP)—Three men arrested at a roadside telephone booth on U. S. 40 Monday night by State Police have been charged with larceny.

Police said Harry F. Riggs, 39, of Olney, was attempting to pry open the coin box when he was arrested.

Maryland Demo Leaders Honor Party Fathers

(By The Associated Press)

Maryland's Democratic hierarchy gathered in Salisbury to pay tribute to two of the party's fathers of long ago and one of its modern-day daughters.

Tennessee Gov. Frank G. Clement served up the main speech at a Jefferson-Jackson dinner in honor of Sen. Mary L. Nock, unopposed for renomination as the only woman senator in Maryland.

The affair also gave the big batch of statewide candidates in the May 20 primary a chance to drum up votes on the Eastern Shore.

Before taking off for Salisbury, many of the candidates fired new rounds of propaganda from their Baltimore headquarters.

New claims of support came from the "harmony" ticket headquarters of J. Millard Tawes, Thomas D. Alesandro Jr., Louis L. Goldstein and C. Ferdinand Sybert—candidates for nomination for governor, U. S. senator, comptroller and attorney general, respectively.

The group's headquarters announced the four had been endorsed by 22 Democratic clubs in Baltimore's Sixth Legislative District. John O. Rutherford, headquarters general secretary estimated the club membership totaled about 2,500.

The dominant Democratic organization in the district is headed by State Sen. George W. Della and Joseph M. Wyatt, who previously announced they were backing Joseph L. Manning instead of Goldstein for the comptroller's nomination. Della was unseated by Goldstein as senate president in 1955.

Clarence D. Long, another of seven candidates for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate, issued statements repeating his proposal to scrap the farm price support system over a five-year period and challenging the sincerity of Communist plans to exploit the nation's economic condition.

Long blamed "Republican mistakes in the last four years" for unemployment, depressed farm prices, overcrowded schools and urban blight.

But he said he had talked with 25,000 Marylanders throughout the State during his campaign and came away convinced that "the average American would prefer anything to the vast prison camp" this country would be under Communism. He said Americans also know "there is nothing wrong with this country that Democratic victories in '58 and '60 can't cure."

Fire Kills One At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—An early morning fire charred the second and third floors of a downtown apartment building Tuesday. One man was found dead and four others were injured.

The body of Robert E. Marshall, 62, was found about 12 feet from the stairway on the third floor. A preliminary medical report indicated he died from asphyxiation.

Hospitalized were Clarence O. Ridenour, 62, with first and second degree burns; his son, Harry F. Ridenour, 27, who fractured his heel when he jumped from the second floor; his wife, Elizabeth, 36, leg injury and burns, and Frances Mae Griffith, 45, burns of the right hand and arm.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started shortly after midnight. An exploding can of an inflammable liquid near the stairs on the second floor blocked the exit and spread the flames.

All four Hagerstown fire companies fought the stubborn blaze until 4 a.m.

Three first-floor stores—a pawn shop, beauty shop and wallpaper store—suffered water damage.

Electricity Restored To Most Of Homes

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. said it expected to have power restored by Tuesday night to most of the more than 2,000 homes still without electricity from last week's storm.

The company planned to keep the 200 repairmen brought in from out-of-state on duty for several more days until all emergency work is completed. The group has served to supplement the utility's regular repair crews which have been working around the clock.

Word from the Weather Bureau that a heavy rainstorm was expected overnight over much of the state promised more interference to the crews.

And a hard downpour could cause the snow still on the ground to melt quickly, with the possibility of high water.

Streams are full but few have gone out of their banks. However, snow up to a foot in depth still remained on the ground in upper Harford and Baltimore counties and represented a considerable backlog of water.

"Blackout" Continues

BURTONSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Hundreds of residents of this Montgomery County area Tuesday experienced their sixth day without normal heat, light, telephone or water service.

A person's feet are larger when he is standing because the weight of his body is on them.

American Education System Defended By Dr. Pullen

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's public school superintendent Tuesday defended the American education system against "attack by foolish men" whose "concern and anxiety exceed their understanding and wisdom."

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. told the Baltimore Rotary Club the greatest danger to this country's mass education system does not come from the lay public, "but from within the profession."

"I have no desire to impugn the motives of anyone," he said. "I content myself with saying that many of the critics of the American faith in democratic education apparently do not know history or how to interpret it properly; their frustration and lack of faith, they would, Samson-like, destroy the temple and themselves."

Dr. Pullen said the American ideal in education means simply that "every individual, regardless of who he is, shall have the opportunity of developing his capacities through education at public expense to the limit of his potentiality, to the optimum benefit of society, and to the extent the public can pay for it."

"It does not necessarily mean that all higher education shall be entirely free," Dr. Pullen said, "but it does mean that the opportunity for higher education shall not be denied to an individual because of economic reasons."

"I am for quality in education and for training in leadership just as I am against sin, he said. "I know of no individual with normal intelligence who would disagree with this point of view, but I must insist that we define the terms," Dr. Pullen added.

"Certainly we should give the best training to potential leaders, but again let us be sure it is done in the democratic tradition. Here lies the big difference between American and European education."

In America we let leadership evolve from its participation and achievement in the educational program, with nature taking the chief hand and in some cases education not doing all it can.

"In the European tradition, leadership is sought out by a system of tests (and possibly some influence in special cases) at the tender age of 12 or 13 and the educational lives and the vocations of those children determined then and there by human beings playing divinity."

Dr. Pullen devoted most of his speech to a review of findings by the President's Committee on Education Beyond High School.

He criticized it as a federal committee in that it "presumes to advise state and local government and nonpublic organizations just what they should do in higher education, and at the same time disclaims practically any federal responsibility in the field itself."

"I am not arguing here for federal aid. I am merely stating a principle. . . I think that the major role of the committee should have been to indicate national consequences of the situation and to suggest the part the federal government should play in it."

Pullen said all scholarships should be abolished.

"They are fundamentally charitable in nature and, therefore, an anachronism in a democratic society. I believe that the cost of all higher education should be lowered for all students to the extent that anybody with any "get up and go" would be able to attend the college of his choice."

Mr., Mrs. Goodrich Mark 64th Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Goodrich observed their 64th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home, 23 Somerville Avenue. The formal celebration was cancelled because Mrs. Goodrich has been sick for the past six months and there has been so much illness among the family. Besides remembrances of flowers and cards, members of the Swanson Memorial Bible Class of Second Baptist Church brought fruit and flowers. The former Miss Fannie F. Long, daughter of the late Louis S. and Cornelia F. Long, Ocean, became the bride of Joseph L. Goodrich, son of the late Joseph and Mamie Goodrich, also of Ocean, on March 19, 1894. Rev. J. C. Nicholson officiated at the ceremony in the parsonage of Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland. Miss Mary E. Scott and Louis Davis were their attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich are the parents of 12 children, of whom nine are living. They are Solomon Goodrich, Stanley Goodrich, John Raymond Goodrich, Mrs. Mary Oglebay, Cumberland; Russell Goodrich, Madison Goodrich, Baltimore; Mrs. Wilma Phares, Washington; Mrs. Virginia Harvey, Frostburg; and Mrs. Frances Geib, Canton, Ohio. They have 27 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. A "clutcher" at Ocean Mine No. 1, Mr. Goodrich and his bride resided in Ocean until 1913, when they came to Cumberland and he began working for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He retired 18 years ago as an engineer for the B&O. Having been a Mason for the past 36 years, Mr. Goodrich is a member of the Georges Creek Valley Lodge, Blue Lodge, Lonaconing. Gardening is his hobby.

Mrs. Goodrich's hobby is saving stamps, which she sends to the Baptist Old Ladies Home, Baltimore. Mrs. Goodrich says she started her hobby about nine years ago, after a visit to the home. ## Homemaker Contest For Local Title To Be Today

Four top western Maryland homemakers will put their cooking talents to work today in the hope of advancing to the Mrs. Maryland America contest.

Two women will be selected from today's cook-offs at the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company service center here to compete in April against the most outstanding homemaker from the Hagerstown area for the Mrs. Maryland title.

Area contestants are Mrs. Joanne Humbert, of LaVale; Mrs. Colleen Kirk, of Fayette Street; Mrs. Colleen Lapp, of Glenview Terrace and Mrs. Alpha Pleasant, of Westernport. The women will prepare an entire meal in two hours. Mrs. Humbert and Mrs. Kirk will work in the morning and Mrs. Lapp and Mrs. Pleasant will cook in the afternoon.

It is elementary doctrine that when one holds three cards of the suit partner has led, and it comes time to return that suit, the higher of the remaining two should be led. This is for informative purposes and aids partner in obtaining an accurate count of the distribution.

However, when nature has so distributed the cards that compliance with the above convention will cost a trick, prudence should override custom. Observe how East applied this theory in today's hand.

ADVERTISEMENT Doctor's Combination of Ingredients Stops Stomach Gas Before It Starts

Buffalo, N. Y. (Special)—Thousands of people who suffered for years from gassy stomach, heartburn, belching after meals and other symptoms of acid indigestion now report wonderful relief, thanks to a formula developed by a prominent doctor and known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Containing not just one or two, but a special combination of 7 ingredients, this famous medicine is designed to stop stomach gas before it even starts. Instead of upsetting the stomach, as so frequent use of soda and alkalizers often does, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery actually promotes more normal stomach activity. Taken regularly, it tones up your digestive system and helps you avoid gas pains, heartburn and sour stomach. Once your stomach is working properly, you can eat what you like without distress. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped so many people that over 35 million bottles have been sold. Get it at your druggist's today in liquid or tablet form. Money back if not satisfied.

four of hearts. Dummy played low and East's king held the trick as South followed with the 10.

East started to make the textbook return of the nine when a genie tugged at his arm. As a result East interrupted his swing long enough to go thru the routine of "The Rule of Eleven."

Declarer on the opening lead had been marked with two hearts higher than the four spot. When the 10 dropped it seemed a moral certainty that the other one was the jack. If East extravagantly played the nine to trick two, dummy's eight would become promoted to winning rank when West's queen covered declarer's jack.

East therefore returned the five. South perforce played the jack and West the queen. Declarer actually ducked in dummy though he could have effected a temporary block by going up with the ace. However, that would not have influenced the result inasmuch as West had two entries.

West continued to establish hearts and declarer had no choice but to try the diamond finesse. When it failed there was a quick decision for East and West.

JC President Cites Need For Responsibility

National Head Visits Tri-Towns

John Raschella, president of the host club, acted as toastmaster. The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Robert T. Shade, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church. Donald Mayberry led in the reading of the Jaycees Creed.

Robert Mathews, president of the Cumberland Club presented a gift to President Shearer in behalf of his club and President Raschella, presented a gift in behalf of the Cumberland, Keyser and Tri-Towns Chapters.

Unemployment Still Gaining In W. Virginia

Claims Jump 469 Since Last Week

CHARLESTON — After dropping for two straight weeks, new unemployment benefit claims took an upturn in West Virginia last week.

A report Tuesday from the Department of Employment Security showed 5,417 initial claims were filed in the state last week. This was a jump of 469 from the previous week.

Director Henry L. Ash said, however, that "a good many of those increased claims have been for only partial unemployment."

Claims must be re-filed every two weeks during the period in which jobless benefits are drawn. The maximum weekly benefit is $30 and the maximum period is 24 weeks.

All claims — including continued claims — totaled 32,110 last week, a drop of 524 from the previous week.

The number of weeks of unemployment claimed last week was 49,027, a drop of 2,138.

Ash thought the increase in new claims coupled with a drop in weeks of unemployment claims indicated not only an increase in partial unemployment but perhaps also a decrease in total unemployment. The benefit payment for unemployment is $36 less the amount earned during the week.

Benefit payments totaled $1,045,691, up $35,755 from the previous week.

The balance in the unemployment compensation fund continued downward, dropping $976,632 to $60,725,847. If the balance drops below 50 million, law requires covered employers to pay the maximum contribution rate, regardless of experience rating, until the balance again reaches 50 million.

15 Prisoners With TB Move To Hopemont

Security Ward Is Completed

CHARLESTON — Fifteen tubercular prisoners will be transferred Wednesday from the State Penitentiary at Moundsville to a newly completed security ward of Hopemont Sanitarium near Terra Alta.

They are the first of 22 Moundsville prisoners scheduled for transfer to Hopemont for treatment of tuberculosis. Public Institutions Commissioner Harold E. Neely said the remaining seven would be transferred as soon as it is certain the new Hopemont facilities can handle that many more.

The security ward at the tuberculosis sanitarium was provided for the specific purpose of taking the prisoners from Moundsville. Neely explained that the project was undertaken for a twofold purpose, to give the prisoners better treatment than is available at Moundsville, and to protect other inmates of the penitentiary from tuberculosis.

They will remain at Hopemont until such time as it is determined that they are controlled cases and no further purpose can be served by treatment at the sanitarium. They will then be returned to Moundsville.

Ridgeley Water Rate Hike Possible

Cumberland's Mayor and Council, taking a dim view of the award of $97,500 for Mineral County Board of Education property needed for flood control, is undertaking a study and computation aimed at increasing water rates to Ridgeley and regaining its share of the property cost.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan told council Monday that the possibility had been discussed some time ago while a Ridgeley water increase case was pending before the West Virginia Public Service Commission. Since that case has been settled, he suggested the Cumberland proposal be revived.

Finan said council could select a study group from its own members, Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, James Twigg and Andrew G. Bender, superintendent, of the Water Department to make the study as to how much an increase might be required.

He said the study might be based on a 10-year period.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said "that would be only punitive because the city can't take money from the Water Department and put it into funds of the city."

Finan agreed and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said "At least we'll get some of the money back." Finance Commissioner John J. Long said he believed it a step in the right

Chemists Meet Here Thursday

Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, director and biologist of the Maryland Department of Research and Education at Solomons, will speak Thursday at 8 p. m. at the dinner meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society.

A dinner at 6:30 p. m. at the Fort Cumberland Hotel precedes the talk by Dr. Cronin. His subject will be "Twenty-five Years of Research at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory."

Dr. Cronin, a native of Harford County, received his A.B. in chemistry from Western Maryland College and his M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Maryland. From 1950 to 1955 he was marine biologist and associate professor at the University of Delaware.

He organized and established a program of research and service in marine biology for the state of Delaware.

Dr. Cronin directs the programs of research applying to conservation of Maryland's natural resources. He is the author of numerous articles dealing with marine biology.

The Chemical Society said non-members of the organization are welcome to attend the program.

25% Of Delegates Don't Seek Re-Election

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Twenty-five per cent of Maryland's General Assemblymen are not running for renomination May 20, but voters haven't seen the last of them.

Like politicians the state over, many are merely trying to switch jobs.

Besides the 11 delegates attempting to gain promotion to the Senate, at least three others are running for county commissioner.

It's part of the springtime political game of musical chairs which produces traffic in both directions—from the Legislature to county or state office and vice versa.

Here are some of the more widely known participants of the game, their present offices, and their goals:

Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, present mayor and former member of the House of Delegates (as well as Congress and City Council), running for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate.

Senate President Louis L. Goldstein, former member of the House of Delegates, running for Democratic nomination for comptroller.

Del. Daniel B. Brewster, House member from Baltimore County, running for Democratic nomination in Second Congressional District.

Russell H. McCain, former State Roads Commission chairman and present executive assistant to Gov. McKeldin, running for Republican nomination to House from Frederick County.

John F. McNulty chief state tobacco inspector, running in Anne Arundel County Democratic primary for House.

John T. Adams, a delegate, seeking Democratic nomination for Dorchester County commissioner.

E. Layton Riggan, a delegate, running for Democratic nomination for Somerset County commissioner.

F. Reynolds Mackie, a delegate, candidate in Democratic primary for Cecil County commissioner.

Samuel W. Barrick, Frederick County state's attorney, unopposed for Democratic nomination to State Senate.

O. T. Kaylor Jr., Washington County state's attorney, unopposed for Republican nomination to State Senate.

Walter R. Dorsey, St. Mary's County state's attorney, one of two opponents of Joseph A. Mattingly, who is seeking Democratic renomination to State Senate.

James A. Wise, Caroline County State's attorney, in the Democratic primary for House.

Alger Y. Barbee, Montgomery County state's attorney, in the Democratic primary for House.

Although three state's attorneys and 11 delegates are in State Senate primaries indicating senatorships aren't going begging, the Republican primary attracted no possible successor to retiring Sen. Jacob R. Ramsburg of Frederick County.

Like other slots left unfilled by volunteers before the March 10 filing deadline, it will be filled by the party's county committee by May 5.

State Ready To Accept Jobless Aid

ESD Will Be Agent If Funds Are Voted

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland would be able to accept the federal money if President Eisenhower's proposal for helping states with jobless benefits should be approved by Congress.

Robert B. Kimble, director of the Employment Security Department, said Tuesday night there is no legal bar to the state accepting such federal aid.

The President's proposal would increase by 50 per cent the number of weeks unemployed workers could draw payments. This would increase Maryland's 26-week limit to 39 weeks.

Kimble said the U.S. Bureau of Employment Security contacted him a week or 10 days ago about the matter. Kimble said he could legally accept the federal funds if he agreed to act as agent for handling them and he agreed to do so at that time.

The director said 8,810 unemployed Marylanders had exhausted their benefits as of Feb. 28. This represents 7.7 per cent of about 115,000 unemployed.

Kimble said those figures were computed for a period extending back to April 1, 1957, when the maximum duration of Maryland payments was extended to 26 weeks.

Bray Convicted At Second Trial

A Garrett County Circuit Court jury on Monday found Gordon Wells Bray, 31, of Altamont, guilty of simple assault, the fifth count of an indictment on which he was tried for the second time.

The jury deliberated about 90 minutes.

Bray was first tried last September 26 on a charge of assaulting Dale Ream of Oakland. Bray was accused of firing a shot through a closed door at Ream.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley did not pass sentence.

In a second trial Monday before the court, Curtis Friend, 24, of Sand Flat was found guilty of assault by Judge Fraley. He was charged with striking David Livingstone Harvey.

Judge Fraley will pass sentence on the two men later.

Second Plow Hitching Demonstration Planned

A second plow hitching demonstration in Allegany County Thursday will be conducted at 2 p. m. on the Glenn Savage Dairy farm of James Robison near Mt. Savage, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Guy W. Gienger, agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland, will stage the first Thursday demonstration at 9:30 a. m. on the Marshall Mann farm near Piney Plains.

"Mike Todd Room"

PARIS (AP)—The Jules Verne Museum said Monday it will have a "Mike Todd room" in honor of the producer of "Around the World in 80 Days," based on Verne's novel. The museum also wired condolences to actress Elizabeth Taylor, Todd's widow.

Water Overflows Both City Dams

Water is pouring over the spillways of both of the city's big reservoirs in the Lake Gordon area.

The Mayor and Council were told that five inches of water was running over Lake Gordon and three inches over Lake Koon. Water consumption was normal last week.

Parking meter receipts for the week ending March 16 totaled $725.30, a drop of $57.58 from the week before.

Forgery Charged In Filing Of Candidate

BALTIMORE (AP)—Election officials said Monday they had thrown out a candidate's certificate for a minor Republican office because it was forged.

Charles A. Dorsey, chairman of the city board of election supervisors, said the board had investigated a report that the forgery was committed by one of the board's own employees, but was unable to substantiate the report.

Dorsey said the office involved was party ward executive of the 26th Ward, in Southeast Baltimore.

Dorsey said the certificate bearing the name of E. Arthur Hurd, longtime holder of the office, had been submitted shortly before the March 10 deadline for filing. It was nullified because the board found that someone other than Hurd had signed it without Hurd's knowledge or consent, the chairman said.

What Next For A National Shrine?

One of this nation's oldest historical edifices, Faneuil Hall (pronounced "Funnel" or "Fannel" by the local citizenry), has reached another crisis in its 218-year career. Built by a wealthy Bostonian as a market house, and used for that purpose for more than two centuries, it now finds itself outside the wholesale produce district.

A five-man commission has been appointed by Boston Mayor John B. Hynes to determine what should be done with the building, which was given to the city on the condition that it be used forever as a market house.

Peter Faneuil built the hall which bears his name primarily for his own convenience. He was an epicurean who enjoyed entertaining but who disliked traveling any distances for his food supplies. He therefore built himself a market place within a few blocks of his home. In 1740, he donated Faneuil Hall to the city of Boston with the understanding that it would thenceforth serve others with like appetites as well as it did him.

The second and third floors still serve as a meeting hall, and the fourth and fifth stories carry on the tradition of the early days by housing the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, founded in 1636 and considered by its members to be the oldest military organization in North America.

In pre-Revolution times, orators could be heard lecturing Faneuil Hall audiences on such taboo subjects as freedom of speech and taxation without representation. It is unique, too, in that it is one of the few patriotic shrines not in the hands of the federal or state governments.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Logical Approach

Professor Calvin B. Hoover of Duke University hit a bull's eye when he defined co-existence:

"We have become accustomed to thinking of a policy of co-existence with Soviet Russia as the opposite of our present foreign policy. In fact it is paradoxical to present a policy of co-existence as an alternative to our present foreign policy. We have, of course, been coexisting with the Soviet regime for the forty years of its life. Indeed we may well ask ourselves how we could possibly have carried on a foreign policy which would have afforded an alternative to co-existence.

"The historical answer is that the alternative to the co-existence of governments has been annihilation of the one or the other. For almost the first time in history the alternatives to co-existence now includes the annihilation of both."

Actually, every people co-exists or even exists without the co, with every other people whether they like it or not unless one of them has been exterminated. And usually even if a country moves from first place to tenth or is conquered by another people in war, the people still exist. For instance, Poland is now, more or less, a province of Soviet Russia, but the Polish people still exist and with characteristic stiff-neckedness resist total absorption by Soviet Russia as is evidenced by the successful battle which is being waged in that country for the survival of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Russians give a special meaning, however, to the term co-existence. They do not mean that nations or peoples continue to live together in a narrowing world. What they do mean is that varying systems of life continue to thrive and grow simultaneously. Some early Marxists did not believe that possible.

It all comes down to the fact that willy-nilly we have to live with the Russians, as unpleasant as it may be. We have had 40 years of the unpleasantness and are, as a matter of fact, learning how. For one thing, we are learning that it is unnecessary for the Russians to tell the truth or to live up to an agreement or to keep a bargain.

When one knows by long experience that that is the situation, he finds a mechanism for getting along. For instance, this summit conference business. It is becoming increasingly obvious from statements made by Khrushchev and Bulganin that they do not want any kind of a summit conference. It has been clear to Secretary of State Dulles that the talk about the conference is a hoax and a fraud designed to achieve some other purpose.

The genius of living with the Russians is to be able to discover what the primary purpose is. That is not an easy task. My own opinion, which I will not too enthusiastically back, is that the primary purpose is to develop a public opinion in Great Britain which will be exceedingly unfavorable to the United States. Others believe that the campaign is aimed at West Germany. Still others are looking for a clue in the Middle East.

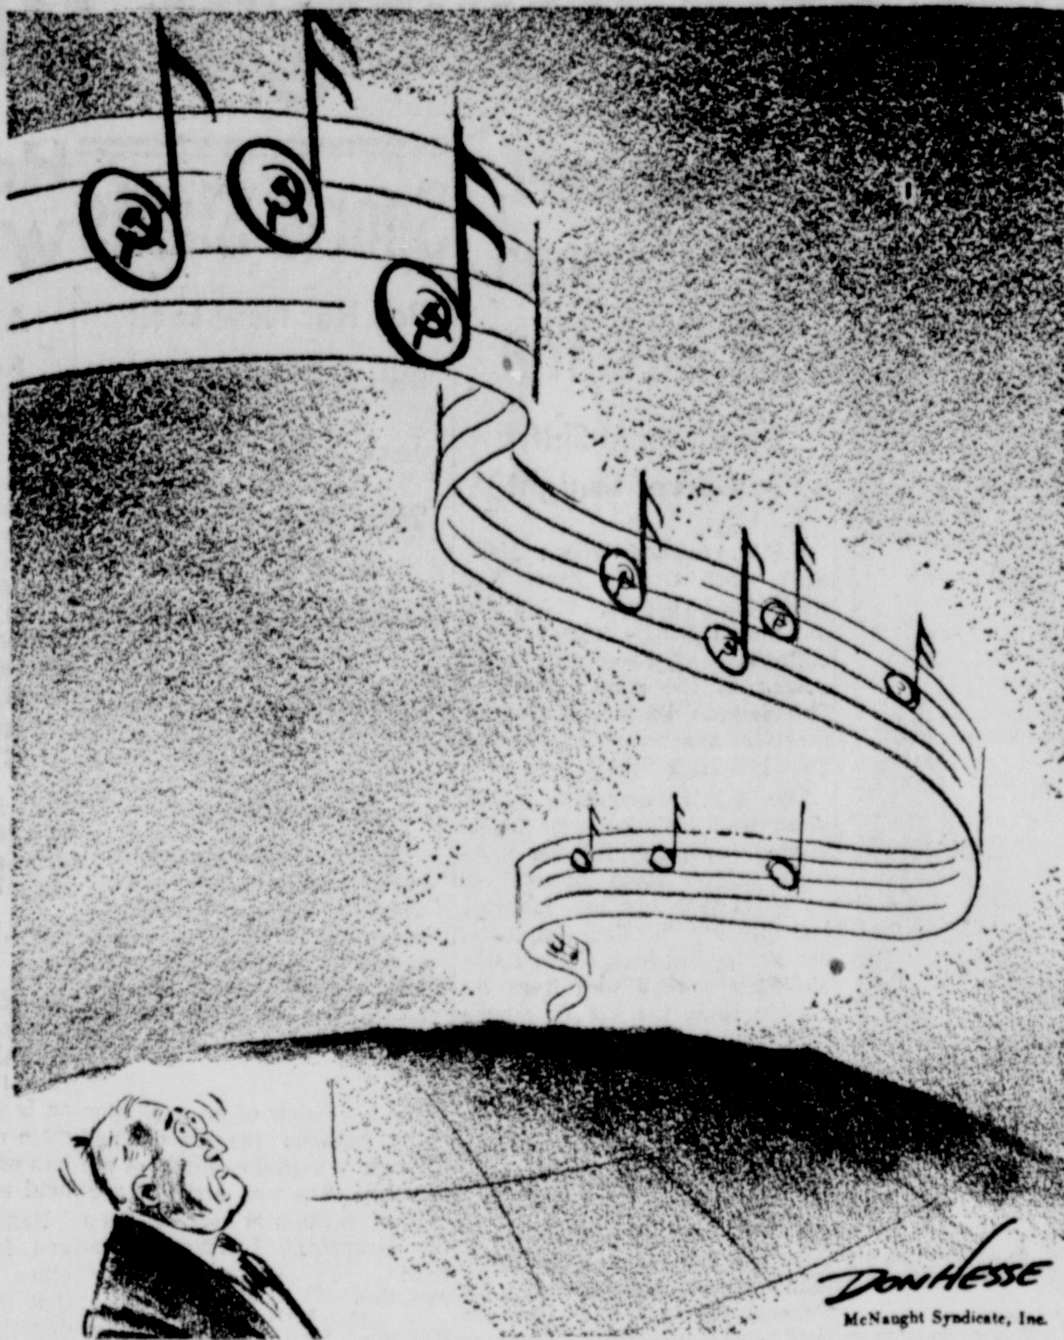

The reason that I assume that this campaign for the summit conference has nothing to do with the summit conference but is designed to deteriorate Anglo-American relations is because precisely that is occurring—not only Anglo-American relations but also American-Canadian relations which, in most respects, are at their very worst.

This is probably the first time in history that both political parties in Canada are openly anti-American. There may be many causes for this but obviously the most serious cause is that Canadians feel that they are being led into another war by the Americans.

Their leaders must realize that in the next war, they will have little chance, for much of the fighting will be in the air over their soil. They will have no means of preventing both Soviet Russia and the United States from flying their bomb-carrying planes over Canada, for it is likely that most of the flying will be across the North Pole as the shortest route between the United States and Soviet Russia. So Lester Pearson becomes a pacifist and wins a Nobel Prize. But none of that will help because geography and weapons determine the nature of war. Pearson cannot change geography, but Soviet Russia can scare the Canadians, which it is doing very effectively.

Cutting Taxes: Eventually, Why Not Now?

WASHINGTON

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

When the unencouraging preliminary figures for March employment and business activity were laid before the Cabinet last week, the response was gloomily impassive. This raises the puzzling question: "Eventually, why not now?"

Eventually, if the final returns on March are bad, the Administration is heavily committed to a bold, business-stimulating tax cut. The President himself promised the country a March upturn only a few weeks ago. Other leading figures of the Eisenhower team have repeatedly explained that we must wait and see the March outcome, and they have indicated that action to cut taxes would follow if the March outcome proved disappointing.

Virtually all the indices now suggest that the March outcome will be decidedly disappointing. New applications for unemployment relief have dropped fractionally. The month may well show a modest increase of persons having jobs—which the White House staff will immediately claim as justification of the President's incautious forecast.

But although the total of employed may rise, the figures already available almost surely mean that the crucial unemployment total will either hold about even or quite possibly rise too. As family incomes are cut by cuts in work hours, and more housewives and young people are looking for jobs to keep pork chops on the family table. Over-all, the American economy looks like doing no better in March than in February, and there are some who say that the curve is still downwards in a month of normal seasonal pick-up.

Unanimity among economists is never to be looked for. But there are not many government economists who have not already delivered an unfavorable verdict on the month of March, except for men directly attached to the President's staff like Dr. Gabriel Hauge. The White House experts and some in the Treasury continue to argue that the economy's March performance can only be judged when all the statistics are finally available, in mid-April.

Maybe Dr. Hauge is right. Certainly, it is now the White House intention to stick to the wait-and-see line at least until mid-April. Even Vice President Nixon, who was all for an immediate tax cut only two weeks ago, has swung round to the case for wait-and-see. But the odds are clearly about three to one that when mid-April rolls around, the final returns on March will give the Administration no choice but taking the promised action to cut taxes, or openly declaring that tax-cutting is not such a good remedy after all.

Therefore the question: "Eventually, why not now?" It has all the more force because any stimulant always is more effective if it is applied early, whether to an ailing economy or an ailing body. It is a really puzzling question, but it has an answer that comes in three parts.

In the first place, a big tax cut is a very big step, especially in view of the worsening foreign and defense situations, which may make heavy future demands on the economy. For this reason if for no other, the key man on the President's advisory team, Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, takes Dr. Hauge's line, not hostile to a tax cut if need be, but wanting all the evidence before the decision.

In the second place, there is an identifiable school of thought in the Administration, probably stronger in the Federal Reserve Board than elsewhere, that is unkindly described as the "further-through-the-wringer" school. Price inflation has been the great fear, all through the Eisenhower years. The "further-through-the-wringer" school holds that the current depression has simply got to be reflected in serious price cuts, before it will be safe to take stimulating action with a naturally inflationary tendency, like a tax cut. Otherwise, this school says, a stimulated upturn now will surely lead on to a grave inflationary situation two years from now.

Finally, the third part of the answer is clearly the President himself. In the President's attitude, there are more than hints of the strong influence of his businessmen friends, many of whom have views about government interference in the economy that do not differ greatly from ex-President Hoover's. Then too, as his reaction to the Sputnik also showed, Dwight Eisenhower nowadays greatly prefers immobility to motion. The President is therefore the strongest defender of doing nothing now to cut taxes, even though it appears almost certain the tax-cut stimulant will have to be applied later.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

In the struggle between the right and the wrong we need a compromise candidate.

A politician who doesn't lean to the right to the left nor the middle. In national quots leaners don't count.

What do the investigations of the last twenty years teach us? Never carry a bundle by the string.

In order to get experience fifty years ago I worked a year for nothing. The experience taught me never to work a year for nothing.

While I'm not in favor of spade-work in the vicinity of Fort Knox I do advocate the modus operandi of good old Tammany Hall. Take a little and leave a little.

Most Reducers Eventually Regain Weight

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many highly advertised obesity remedies have been dubbed twist and weasel pills. To sell them, manufacturers must twist the claims and weasel the words. These products neither reduce weight nor suppress appetite. The majority contain vitamins and bulk that swells when mixed with gastric and intestinal juices.

The manufacturers of these pills make reducing sound easy. They are armchair strategists who sell their wares to consumers they never see and cannot follow up on results. Any tests of the products are done on selected individuals over a short period; everyone could drop poundage if given enough incentive to starve for three weeks while tests are being made.

Physicians are closer to the true problem of obesity. They see these patients over the years and know that the majority who reduce will regain weight promptly. The records show that some have lost as much as 500 pounds—25 pounds twice a year for 10 years.

Dr. Albert Stunkard, of Cornell university, regarded a 20 pound decrease as successful. Using this lenient standard, he was unable to find a medical report in which long term therapy was successful in more than 30 per cent, regardless of the type of diet and the methods used by various physicians.

This explains why so many different diets enjoy brief periods of popularity. The same applies to the twist and weasel pills. The success of the slenderizing salons is not known because they have not reported their results.

Anyone who makes an honest appraisal of the situation will conclude that the outcome of treatment, even by experts, is poor. But let's not become too alarmed, because overweight may not be as harmful as many believe. Much more research is needed to uncover the facts. Some of the statements made about the adverse effects of obesity on health and longevity can be challenged.

HANDEDNESS

Mr. E. R. writes: At what age can you determine whether a child will be right handed or left handed? My 3 year old daughter and my 18 month old child tend to use the left hand more than the right.

REPLY

Usually between the second and third birthdays. It is most difficult to tell in the ambidextrous, as when the child uses one hand for feeding and the other for various activities. A British study of 330 children, aged 11, used 18 different tests to determine handedness. None was entirely accurate. In south-paws, the two hands were closer in ability than in the right handed. The investigators found no difference in scholastic ability in the left and the right handed but when the right handed had left handed tendencies, the grades were slightly poorer.

GROWTH ON FACE

B. D. writes: My 70 year old father-in-law has a peculiar growth on his cheek bone. It is about the thickness of a toothpick and looks like a horn. Would you have any suggestions on this condition?

REPLY

Occasionally oldsters develop skin lesions that look like miniature animal horns. They are more common on the face and scalp

Pearson Apologizes To Two Johnsons And Rayburn; Sets Record Straight

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Catholic Church has a fine obligation practiced by members of its faith which the rest of us non-Catholics should follow — especially newspapermen. It's the obligation of confession. I want to follow it now in regard to some mistakes I have made.

CONFESSION NO. 1 pertains to Louey Johnson, the former Secretary of Defense. In reporting some of the reasons why we were behind Russia on missiles and satellites, I stated that Johnson had curtailed these two programs in the interest of economy when he was running the Defense Department. This was 50 per cent in error, which I now want to correct.

Louey, who conscientiously tried to knock heads together to prevent Pentagon bickering, did cut out the satellite program started by his predecessor. However, he did not cut the far more important missile program started January 10, 1946, when the Air Corps let a contract to Convair to build the MX-774. The project was killed, not by Johnson but by the then Chief of Staff of the Army, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, on July 1, 1947. The Army was then in control of the Air Corps.

In fairness to Eisenhower, it should be noted that he acted on the advice of his military experts. But in fairness to Louey Johnson I want to make it clear that he did not kill the missile project.

CONFESSION NO. 2 pertains to another Johnson, Senator Lyndon B. of Texas. Recently I reported that he had acquired TV station KTBC in Austin under a quickie grant from the Federal Communications Commission right after the freeze was taken off the granting of TV licenses. While the Johnson TV grant was included among the so-called "quickie" licenses awarded in the rush of July 1952, there was no competition for it from any other applicant to Austin, and the Johnson license had been on file with the FCC since March 14, 1952. The freeze was taken off on July 1, 1952, and the Johnson application was granted July 11. Another applicant in Austin got a UHF station the same day. Johnson's was a VHF. I am delighted to make these facts entirely clear.

CONFESSION NO. 3 Pertains to Speaker Sam Rayburn's disparaging remarks about Postmaster General Summerfield when Summerfield offered him some new Post Offices in Sam's Texas district as an apparent inducement to win Sam's support for increased postage.

Though the Speaker told the story quite recently, I now find that the incident actually happened at the last session of Congress and therefore applied to the four-cent stamp instead of the five-cent. However, the point of the story remains even more valid, because if the speaker was sore at the postmaster general regarding his tactics in trying to win support for the four-cent stamp, he will be even more adamant regarding the increase to five cents. He has indicated this recently in telling the story of Summerfield's offering him new post offices in order to curry favor.

Summerfield also offered Democratic leader John McCormack some new Post Office buildings in Boston, but was turned down. McCormack said he preferred to see people rent buildings to the Post Office Department so they would continue to pay taxes to local governments.

I regret the error regarding the date of the Rayburn-Summerfield incident.

CONFESSION NO. 4 pertains to Major General Julius Klein of the Illinois National Guard, who has complained about certain reports I have written regarding his lobbying re the return to Germany of alien property seized by the USA in the USA during the war.

I find that I erroneously reported that General Klein was founder of the Jewish War Veterans. He was not. He was national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, 1947-48, and has been chairman of their executive committee since 1952. I regret the error.

I do not, however, regret reporting General Klein's lobbying activities because I think the public has a right to know about any efforts regarding the return of alien property; lobbying or otherwise, which would result in increasing our tax bill about $150,000,000.

General Klein self-righteously denies that he was hired to lobby for the return of German property, but it would be interesting to know why Herman Abs the big German banker, is willing to pay him $40,000 plus expenses. Klein claims it's in order to get recognition of an international code whereby property will not be seized by foreign governments. However, he's registered with the Justice Department as a foreign agent, has made appearances before a Congressional committee and introduced his client to Congressmen, all in the interest of creating a climate more favorable to the return of German property.

Klein also claims that Herman Abs is a poor victim of Hitler and would have us believe that Abs opposed Hitler. The fact is that Abs was one of the top bankers under Hitler, a director of I. G. Farben, a director of the Deutsch Bank, and Senator Smathers of Florida has put in the Congressional Record proof that Abs was a member of the German bankers who participated in wresting away Jewish-owned property under Hitler.

General Klein doesn't like me to mention his connection with the Jewish War Veterans. But one reason he is paid $40,000 by Herman Abs is because most Jews are opposed to the return of German property, therefore Klein's self-advertised background in Jewish veterans activities helps make his lobbying efforts more effective.

After all, a great many people still remember that Hitler murdered 6,000,000 Jews—even if General Klein doesn't.

I wish to apologize, however, for reporting that he was the founder of the Jewish War Veterans. He was merely past commander.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The face was angular, as pale as custard. A bun of dark hair leaned against the back of the neck. The teeth were too white. This woman was 55. Some of it showed. She sat behind a solitary glass of sherry, dreaming out toward the river. She spoke slowly, the eyes far off in distance, and sometimes she lapsed into humorless silence.

Her name is Miss Corinne Hardesty. A long time ago, she was a reporter on the hurly-burly Chicago Herald-Examiner. Those were the days of Hildy Johnson and Al Capone. Her face is that of a serene saint. It is moulded more to the job she has now: student nurse.

"I'm not a crusader," she said in the precise, teeth-biting diction of a midwest school teacher. No, not a crusader. Not a do-gooder. Not a bleeding heart. Just an overlay of Christian love in the blue eyes. And a small chip on the shoulder when marriage is mentioned.

"Must I say how many times I've been engaged?" No. You must not, vital statistics are enough; born, Piqua, Ohio. Father was a contractor. He's dead. So is mother and two brothers. Sans husband, this leaves a lady super-independent and irritable or the romantic side.

Corinne Hardesty was a reporter on the Montgomery Journal in 1928. The era of gentlemen was still alive in the South. When she applied for the job, Miss Corinne was escorted to the newspaper by her brother. When she worked late, the editor assigned a reporter to escort Miss Corinne home. "No southern gentleman would permit a lady to go home unescorted," he said.

The pale eyes crinkle with pleasure as she remembers. Her assignments were weather, floods, damage to crops—the dregs of excitement. She left Alabama for Illinois. After two years of work on the Herald-Examiner, Miss Hardesty achieved a minor triumph. She got a job with United Press.

UP didn't like women reporters. In their newsgathering network, they had but two: a part-time reporter in Paris and a full-time reporter in Washington whose assignment was to "cover" Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Miss Hardesty is a quiet, conservative unsensational woman. Still, excitement came her way in Chicago, New York, Washington, London and Paris. She was sent to London when the Germans stopped using V-1 bombs. They switched to V-2s, which were heard only after they landed.

She was in Paris when the war ended: It was a happy, delirious, affectionate, city and Miss Hardesty began to think of the future. United Press sent her to New York. The next year her editors wanted her to return to Europe. The pale, composed lady said no.

Deep in her mind there was an atavistic itch to help people, but it was formless. She didn't know how. Miss Hardesty was in the middle of a successful career as a journalist, a career usually denied to ladies by gentlemen editors. "I wanted to work with people," she says, sipping the single sherry. "Observing them wasn't enough."

She quit. Miss Hardesty took a small position with the American Friends Service Committee. She wrote Quaker pamphlets and tracts, and helped to edit a Quaker book. This wasn't quite it.

In 1951, Miss Hardesty decided to become a nurse. There was one drawback to this noble impulse. She was 49 years of age. Most hospital nursing schools will take students up to 30 years of age, or 35. Now that she knew what she wanted to do with the remainder of her life, the goal became remote because she had been beaten by the clock.

There is a quiet, thin-lipped insistence about Miss Hardesty. She refused to give up. She tried everywhere. Someone told her about Monmouth Memorial Hospital in Long Branch, New Jersey. The age limit, if health was good, would be 45. This sounded encouraging except that the year was 1956, and Miss Hardesty was now 54.

Still, she journeyed to Long Branch. She was interviewed and examined and tested and the hospital ran out of reasons for saying no. Miss Hardesty was enrolled.

She is now in her second year. She will find her, slender and earnest, walking the wards in sneakers carrying medicines or bed pans or marking figures on a chart or studying in her room. She pays $500 a year tuition fee, and she pays for her room and board.

Miss Hardesty studies in a class with 17 other women, most of them very young. She leads her class in studies. The reporter in her is dead. Well, almost.

"I saw a story the other day," she says, smiling a little. "Three little boys came in and walked up to a doctor and said they wanted to donate their spending money to research. It was $6.30. The doctor asked what kind of research. 'Isotopes,' they said."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Carl Bernstein tells of two first graders in the progressive school playground. "Do you think," asked one, "that thermonuclear projectiles will pierce the heat barriers?" "It's unlikely," said the second. "Once a force penetrates the stratosphere..." Just then the school bell clanged. "Darn it," grumbled the first, "now we gotta go inside and string beads."

Motto worth remembering, submitted by a native of Haiti: "Never insult an alligator till after you have crossed the river."

Steve Allen defines a bore as a person who is interesting to a point — the point of departure.

Robinson Regains World Middleweight Boxing Crown

Sugar Given 2-1 Decision Over Basilio

Recaptures Title 4th Time In Bitter Scrap At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Incredible Sugar Ray Robinson won the world middleweight title for the fifth time Tuesday night as he closed champion Cammen Basilio's left eye in the sixth round and took a split 15-round decision in a brutal fight before a capacity crowd in Chicago Stadium.

Basilio, making his first defense since he dethroned Robinson in New York last Sept. 23, was a gargantuan fighting gnome peering out of one eye for the last 10 rounds of the bitter scrap.

Robinson, who now has recaptured the 160-pound crown four times, tried desperately to knock out his courageous little foe, but although he jolted him time after time he never floored him.

Summoning tremendous courage, Basilio even stunned Sugar Ray several times in the fierce battle.

Referee Favors Champ

Both judges voted for Robinson under the five point must system by decisive margins. But referee Frank Sikora called it for Basilio, 69-66.

In the New York bout, the referee voted for Robinson and the two judges called it for Basilio. Judge John Bray went for Robinson, 71-64 and Judge Frank McAdams gave it to Sugar Ray, 72-64. The Associated Press card had Robinson winning 70-63.

Robinson weighed 159 1/2 and Basilio 153.

The turning point came late in the fifth round when Robinson scored a jolting left to the jaw and then crashed a right high to the head which started closing Basilio's left eye.

By the time the sixth round started, there was scarcely a slit in the champion's puffed left eye. It seemed it would be only a short time before Robinson would blast his handicapped opponent to the canvas.

Sugar Seems To Tire

But Basilio fought savagely in round after round. Robinson was content to jab at long range through the seventh and eighth rounds. Then in the ninth, Basilio fought with renewed fury and Sugar Ray seemed to tire.

The 10th and 11th proved the most exciting rounds of the match. Basilio hurt Robinson with a left to the jaw and a moment later with a whistling right to the head. But Robinson wound up the 10th with a vicious combination that stunned the champion.

In the 11th, both fighters cut loose with punishing blows. But each time one was hurt, he fought back with fury.

In both the 12th and 13th rounds, the champion — fighting purely from instinct — and the stalking challenger played away with jarring punches.

In the 14th, Robinson staggered Basilio twice and the crowd, sensing the killing, screamed for a knockout. But the round ended with Basilio bobbing and weaving low as Robinson swished at him with punches that failed to hit their mark.

Basilio Hangs On

In the 15th, Robinson tried desperately for a knockout but Basilio hung on and the round closed with Sugar Ray and the champion draped over the ropes with Robinson looking at the clock.

Attendance Is 17,976

Although there appeared to be a standing room crowd, the sponsoring International Boxing Club announced the attendance as 17,976 with a gross gate of $351,955 and a net of $278,108.

This fell considerably short of the indoor fight record gate of $422,918 at the 1947 middleweight title bout between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano in the same ring. A crowd of 18,547 attended that fight.

Each fighter tonight collected 30 per cent of the net gate, an estimated $300,000 from closed circuit TV and $30,000 from the national radio broadcast.

Purkey Goes Route, Wins For Cincy, 3-1

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Bob Purkey went the route Tuesday, allowing only five hits as the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Washington Senators 3-1, in an exhibition baseball game.

The fine pitching performance made Purkey a strong candidate to work the National League opener April 15 against Philadelphia. He was the first Redleg to pitch nine innings this spring.

Republicans Victors

The Frostburg Republican Club scored a 2-1 decision over Hann's Tavern in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. V. Phillips' 23 was high for the Republicans while A. Miller led Hann's with 21 tallies.

Tournament Shifts To Carver Tonight

V.F.W. downed Wilson Hardware, 49-33. Greene Street Esso walloped Hyndman, 71-33, and the Sports Shoppe trimmed Valentine's, 48-22, in opening round games as the annual Women's Rec League Basketball Tournament got under way last night at Fort Hill High School.

The V.F.W. defending champions with their superior height proved too much for the hardware sextet. Rose Bowers set up plays with her fast footwork and passing to Mae Smith for her left-handed hook shots. Kathy Mullany worked well from the outside while the V.F.W. guards bottled up the shorter Wilson forwards. Mullany collected 13 goals and 28 points for the winners. T. Darr led Wilson's with 14 points and J. Beckward garnered 11, including 7 for 8 at the foul line.

Greene Street's fast-breaking forwards ran away from Hyndman's guards and outscored the Pennsylvanians 35 to 14 from the field. Guarded closely, Hyndman was forced to shoot from the outside and Annabelle Leatherman heaved in several shots from the 20-foot mark. F. Cook sank hers from the corners. Nancy Belt of Greene Street used her hook shot effectively after faking through the guards and scored 21 points. Wilma Redinger, high scorer at Fort Hill this season, racked up 15 fielders and 30 points for the winners. Wanda Shaffer headed Hyndman with 13 markers.

Valentine's had difficulty in breaking through the Sports Shoppe team's guards and could not cope with the latter sextet's experience. Pat Thompson dumped in 18 points and Cora Leatherman and Jeanie Hale garnered 15 each for the winners. J. Armentrout sparked Valentine's with 12.

By C. V. BURNS

ALL MAJOR press services have adopted a revised box score for the 1958 major league season. Individual putouts and assists are deleted and the four columns of information show at bats, runs, hits and runs batted in.

Another change making for easier reading occurs in the summary where the pitching performances have been put in tabular style. The pitchers' won and lost records are to be listed on the same line as each pitcher's game performance.

The box below of an exhibition game between the Cards and Yankees is a good example of the new look. The won and lost records of pitchers is missing from the Grapefruit League tabulation.

Handley High Considers Withdrawing From CVAL

Asked To Reconsider Action; Carl R. Beer Heads School League

Handley High School, of Winchester, Va., one of the charter members of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, is considering dropping out of the high school circuit which was revived in 1956, but other schools in the league are requesting the Virginia school to reconsider its action.

This news was revealed at the spring dinner meeting of the C. V. A. L. held yesterday at Parkview Inn, Berkeley Springs, in a letter sent to the league by Principal Quarles of Handley High School.

Age Limits Differ

The difference in age limits of athletes is believed to be the reason for Handley's action. When a Virginia school athlete becomes 19 at the start of the school term he is permitted to play until the close of the term. This rule differs with West Virginia and Maryland age regulations.

Handley participates in track and football in the CVAL and other schools expressed regret that the Judges are considering dropping out of the circuit. It was pointed out that there has been no objection filed in regard to the Virginia age limit and it is hoped Handley will remain in the league.

Fort Hill High School was presented the league trophy for winning the 1957-58 basketball championship but Coach John J. Cavanaugh of the Sentinels was unable to attend because he was at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, undergoing a checkup for an ear infection. Fort Hill was represented by Victor D. Heisey, principal, and William P. Hahn, football coach.

Gary Shook, of Allegany High School, was recognized as the league's individual scoring champion for the 1957-58 season and it was announced Fort Hill will play host to the third annual track and field meet on May 17. C. V. Burns, of the Cumberland News, was named official statistician of the league.

Beer Elected President

Carl R. Beer, principal of South Hagerstown High School, was elected president of the league, succeeding Victor D. Heisey, who had served for the past two years. Stephen A. Lerda, principal of Westminster High School is the new vice president and W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Dr. Haines, Wil and football in the CVAL, and Liam Faherty, athletic director, other schools expressed regret that the Judges are considering dropping out of the circuit. It was pointed out that there has been no objection filed in regard to the Virginia age limit and it is hoped Handley will remain in the league.

CARDINALS -- Stronger Mound May Bring Flag

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Stan Musial says that he is "on-a-year-to-year-basis" now after 16 years in the big time and the St. Louis Cardinals, under Freddie Hutchinson, also are on a "year-to-year" basis for the elusive pennant, which hasn't flown over Busch stadium for 12 years.

The Cardinals almost grabbed it last year, winding up second to the world's champion Milwaukee Braves and still in the pennant fight down to the last week of the season.

They're just as good a ball club this year, plus an added depth in pitching, and if any club gives the Braves a battle it could be Hutch's Cardinals.

Much depends on Musial, of course, for the Great One of the Red Birds, 37 years old, came up with one of his finest seasons last year, hitting .351, driving in 102 runs, and Stan's bat is a must in any pennant picture.

"We have a lot of veteran players," Hutch explained over a cup of tomato soup in the clubhouse after viewing his "B" squad in an exhibition game. "We also have a flock of youngsters and we believe we can find what we're looking for here. I wouldn't say very many of them will break in because we're pretty well set."

"I'd like to have an excess of good pitching," Hutch continued, "and I believe that this year we've got more depth."

The Red Birds have made a couple of switches to work things out. Ken Boyer, the hard-hitting third sacker, again will be in the outfield and Al Dark, the veteran infielder, has been moved to third where he won't have to make as many movements and can play regularly. Dark is 34 years old now.

Kasko To Play Short

Eddie Kasko will play short. Don Blasingame is at second and Stan The Man at first. Infield replacements are Ben Valenzuela, who hit .286 at Houston, and Pidge Brown, who matched that at Houston.

There are only two catchers, Hobie Landrith and Hal Smith, but one of the outfielders, Gene Green, who had a fine year at Rochester, also is a catcher and can help out here.

The outfield is well set with Boyer, Joe Cunningham, Del Ennis, Wally Moon and Bobby Gene Smith.

Among the newcomers in the outfield are Curt Flood, a young speedster from the Redlegs; Jim Frey, from Tulsa; Jim King, from Omaha and Joe Taylor, who spent last season with Seattle and Cincinnati.

The pitching staff is loaded with talent and young hopefuls. Hutch says he will have to consider Larry Jackson, Wilmer Mizell, Sad Sam Jones and Lindy McDaniel as his "big four" with an assortment of others ready to move in.

Among the youngsters are Bob Miller, the bonus boy who will need some seasoning but has a great future; Von McDaniel, the other half of the McDaniel brother combo; Bob Blaylock, Phil Clark, Lynn Lovenguth, Billy Muffett and Howard Nunn.

Starred In Minors

Clark won 16 at Houston and Muffett won 14 there. Flanagan won nine at Indianapolis and Lovenguth turned in 14 wins at Rochester.

Von McDaniel, who won seven and lost five in his first season with the Cards, "is a bit more settled," according to Hutch, and he's going to be as good as his brother, who won 15 for the Cards in 1957.

Several other youngsters were

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies spotted the New York Yankees a 4-0 lead Tuesday, then came from behind to win 5-4.

Semproch gave up four runs on six hits, a walk and a hit batsman in the first two innings but set the Yankees down scoreless for four more innings. During one stretch Semproch retired seven Yanks in order.

Dick Farrell pitched the last three innings. He walked four men but was touched for only one harmless single.

London Scrap Halted In 4th

British Fighter Is Disqualified

LONDON (AP) — Cleveland Williams, hard-hitting heavyweight contender from Houston, Tex., Tuesday night won by disqualification in the fourth round over Welshman Dick Richardson at Empress Hall. Referee Frank Wilson stopped the fight after warning Richardson several times for "persistent butting."

Williams, ninth-ranking contender with a long list of knockouts to his credit, floored the 23-year-old Richardson near the end of the first round with a right to the jaw. Richardson leaped up at two.

The tall Welshman was warned for charging with his head down in the second, third and fourth rounds. After receiving a stern lecture for butting early in the fourth, Richardson bumped heads with his rival later in the round. Williams came out of the collision with blood streaming from a cut on his cheek.

The referee then stopped the fight and awarded the victory to the American.

The fans gave a tremendous ovation to heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson who boxed a three-round exhibition with spar-

Hart And Smith Fight Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Welterweights Garnett (Sugar) Hart and Charley (Tomstone) Smith meet Wednesday night in a bout that will move the winner toward the top of the division rankings.

Hart, 22, of Philadelphia, is a 2-1 favorite for the nationally televised bout (ABC, 10 p.m. EST) not only because of his superior record but also because Smith, of Los Angeles, may have to sacrifice some power to make a weight limit.

The contract for the scheduled 10-rounder calls for the division weight maximum of 147 pounds, give or take a pound. Smith, 24, sometimes has scaled as high as 156½. Hart normally is at 147 or 149.

Each has evidenced terrific punching power. Hart has scored 19 knockouts in compiling a 24-3-1 record. Smith has 12 KOs in his 25-5 log.

Hart is listed seventh by the National Boxing Assn., Smith eighth. Ring magazine rates Smith No. 4 in the division and Hart No. 10.

ring partner, Dusty Rhodes. Patterson brought a roar from the crowd when he dropped Rhodes with a left to the jaw in the third round.

In an international lightweight 10-rounder, South Africa's Willie Towell, 138, outpointed Fernand Nollet, 134½, of France.

Dave Sisler Beats Braves

Retires 15 Batters
In Row For 4-3 Win

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Right-handed Dave Sisler stretched his hitless pitching streak to nine innings Tuesday as the Boston Red Sox made it two straight over the champion Milwaukee Braves 4-3.

Sisler had set down the St. Louis Cardinals in an earlier exhibition with only the lead-off batter reaching base on an error.

He took over for Tom Brewer in the fourth inning against the Braves and retired 15 consecutive batters. He fanned three and was the winning pitcher as the Red Sox rallied for three runs to take the lead.

The Braves had scored two in the first and one in the second off Brewer, making his first mound appearance.

Brooks Robinson
Hits Two Homers

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Brooks Robinson slammed a pair of home runs Tuesday as the Baltimore Orioles broke a four-game losing streak with an 8-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The young third baseman homered in the second inning with the bases empty. He connected again in the eighth with two men aboard and the Orioles trailing by one run.

Bert Hamric homered with one on for Baltimore and Chico Carrasquel walloped a solo homer for the Indians.

Cal McLish, the Indians' starting pitcher, limited the Orioles to three runs in a fraction more than five innings. He left the game holding a 4-3 lead.

The loser was Carl Thomas, who served a home run pitch to Robinson in the seventh after Bob Boyd and Jim Busby had singled. The winner was righthander Russell Heman, who blanked Cleveland on three hits over the last three innings.

Watch This One! Willie Kirkland May Prove Another Mays For Giants

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The record player was going, playing jazz music, when we knocked on the door of Willie Kirkland's room here at the San Francisco Giants' camp. When Willie answered the door, there was more than a slight resemblance between Kirkland, a raw rookie, and that other Willie—the $70,000 outfield great.

The record player belonged to Mays. And the room was shared by Mays until his wife arrived and Mays moved out, giving Kirkland the big room to himself.

"Yes," answered Willie Kirkland, "I'd like to be like Willie Mays—but I guess there's only one Willie Mays." Maybe so, but Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants hopes that Kirkland will turn out to be another.

Kirkland's record is such that he appears to have the makings, though he hasn't batted against major league pitching until this spring. At 24, he stands 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 198 pounds, hits from the left side with plenty of power and is an outfielder.

In four years in the minors, since he was signed to a Giants' contract off the Detroit sandlots, Kirkland has shown the power stroke. He hit 35 homers for Maryville in the Mountain State league in 1953, 27 for St. Cloud, 40 for Sioux City and, finally, 37 for Minneapolis in 1956, before entering the armed service.

In the service, Willie hit for a fabulous .700 average at Camp

WILLIE KIRKLAND

Carson, Colorado Springs, Colo., where he helped win the Fifth Army baseball crown.

Last winter he played in the Dominican loop, but failed to hit well. But in the playoffs in the Caribbean series, he batted .364.

Kirkland, born in Siluria, Ala., loved baseball so much that he played softball in the mornings during the summer and hardball in the afternoon.

Kirkland is being given a good shot at the Giants' right field spot. If he makes it, he will be playing next to his buddy, Willie Mays, and he'd like nothing better.

Chicago Cubs Rout
San Francisco, 15-4

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Big Dale Long blasted three of six Chicago home runs as the Cubs belted the San Francisco Giants 15-4 in an exhibition baseball game Tuesday.

The 6-foot-4 first baseman collected two of his homers off the Giants' ace lefthander, Johnny Antonelli, and the third off Pete Brunside, each with a man on base.

Chuck Tanner, Ernie Banks and John Goryl also homered for the Cubs in their 21-hit attack.

Four of the roundtrippers came off Antonelli, who worked six innings and gave up nine runs.

San Francisco's rookie right-fielder Willie Kirkland and veteran Hank Sauer each clubbed solo homers. Kirkland's came off Jim Brosnan, who worked six innings to gain credit for the victory. Big Hank socked his off reliever Fernando Rodriguez.

24 Second Rule Given Brushhoff By Colleges

Coaches Sound Off Against Pro Rule

NEW YORK (AP) — The controversial 24 second rule got a chilly brushoff from the Basketball Rules Committee and a group of college coaches said today they weren't a bit surprised.

"The rule is good for the pros but not good for the colleges," said Harry Litwack, whose Temple team was a semifinalist in the national tournament last weekend in Louisville.

Alvin (Doggie) Julian of Dartmouth and Frank (Bucky) O'Connor of Iowa said "amen."

Litwack and O'Connor are rival coaches in the annual East-West all-star collegiate basketball game next Saturday night at Madison Square Garden.

They and other coaches, who sounded off against the 24 second rule, were luncheon guests of the New York Herald Tribune which sponsors the game for the Fresh Air Fund.

The rule, used by the professionals, stipulates that a team must take a shot at the basket within 24 seconds after it gets its hands on the ball. Otherwise, the ball is given to the other side.

The National Basketball Committee, which makes rules for colleges, high schools, YMCA and amateur teams in the United States and Canada, didn't even consider the regulation yesterday at its meeting in Louisville.

A year ago there was a campaign to make the rule a part of the college game on the grounds it would prevent late game stalling, cut down deliberate fouls and speed up the game.

Bayer Paces Pros In Seminole Golf

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Long hitting George Bayer, a pro from San Gabriel, Calif., took a one stroke lead Tuesday in the first round of the professional division of the 18th annual Seminole Pro-Am with a 34-34-68.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Texas, and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, were tied with 69's. Hogan fired a 36 on the front nine and 33 on the back. Stranahan went out in 34 and returned in 35.

The $10,000 tournament is being played over the 6,850 yard Seminole Golf Club course. It has a par 36-36-72.

SPORTS GRILL

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 25 — (INS) — We doubt that over the years anybody has lambasted, ridiculed or exposed the bad boys of the fight racket more than we have. Through the years, we have seen tank jobs which everybody close to the fight racket suspected were coming off.

But we assure you that the Isaac Logart-Virgil Akins fight in Madison Square Garden last Friday was definitely not a tank job. Even the strongest Logart adherents were convinced that the sixth-round kayo Akins scored was strictly on the level.

We were stunned to learn that the New York district attorney had issued subpoenas to Matchmaker Billy Brown, the fighters and their managers and even to Mushky McGee.

This McGee is a character in the offices of Jim Norris' International Boxing Club. One naive writer described Mushky as "personal assistant to President Norris." Well, he is. Mushky is the fellow Jim sends out for coffee and sandwiches, and he helps Mushky Jackson mail envelopes. The ringside odds were 9 to 5 on Logart, and the subpoena was issued because the underdog had won. There was very little betting on the fight because nobody could be sure about Akins, who has an in-and-out record.

Well, Akins was very definitely in the mood, as who wouldn't be with a $20,000 guarantee and a sure shot to fight Vince Martinez for the welter title?

The two judges and referee had the first five rounds scored 4-1 in favor of Logart. Fair enough. But the rounds were close. Logart scored points on flurries of punches, most of which Akins blocked with arms or gloves. And when Akins scored he hurt.

In the sixth Akins, a truly hard puncher, floored Logart. Now if Logart had intended to take a dive all he had to do was stay down and be counted out.

Instead he got up and stood there helpless while Akins handed him a terrific beating against the ropes until the referee stopped it. Do you suppose any sane person would take such a terrible beating if he intended to throw the fight?

And why should he throw it with a shot at the title in sight? The final of the elimination series to determine the new champion will pit the winner, Akins, against Vince Martinez and Akins looks like a sure winner.

Bang Up Scores At Gulfstream

MIAMI, Fla., March 25 (AP) — Bang Up assumed command at the start and held on gamely to withstand the belated challenge of Somnus for a length victory in the $10,000 Gulfstream Park Dinner Stakes today.

The Dorchester Farm Stable colt led Somnus, owned by Mrs. Moody Jolley, by one length at the finish of the three-furlong dash for 2-year-olds. Circle M Farm's Curious Roman was two lengths behind Somnus and length to the fore of P. H. Frelinghuysen's Star Ruler.

Bang Up paid $10.30 and was clocked in :34 over the sloppy track. Bang Up, a promising son of Navy Chief and Paige, has three victories in six starts. He was third once and unplaced only twice.

Tiswar Splashes To Win At Bowie

BOWIE, Md., March 25 (AP) — Berben Stable's Tiswar won at $16.40. The $3,500 H. B. P. A. Purse at Bowie Race Track today over a sloppy track.

Tiswar won by three parts of a length from Setum Up Joe while Blue Ray ran third.

Riding his first winner since serving a ten-day suspension, Jockey Eugene Monacelli took Tiswar out to a clear lead in the stretch and then rode out the six furlongs in 1:13 3/5.

In the winner's circle, Dr. George Rosenberger of Wilmington, who serves as president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, presented a trophy to Bernard Bar nett, Elizabeth N. J., owner of Tiswar.

Tiswar paid $16.40, $5.80 and $4.00. Setum Up Joe paid $9.20 and $5.60. Blue Ray paid $13.40, to all fields. Second, on defense

Luck And Manager's Faith Made Hoak Big Leaguer

Topped 3rd Sackers, Hit .293 Last Year

TAMPA, Fla., March 23—(INS) — "Luck and a manager's faith."

These two factors, Don Hoak believes, brought about his complete transformation from a "minor league" major leaguer to an outstanding star with Cincinnati.

Consider the facts. Hoak in two years with Brooklyn never hit over .245. In 1956 with Chicago, he batted only .215, hit 18 doubles and five homers and knocked in 37 runs. Last season as a Redleg he batted .293, led the league with 39 doubles, hit 19 homers and drove in 89 runs.

At Chicago, his fielding at third base was about the worst in the league as he compiled an average of .949. Last year he topped the league's third basemen with a .971 average, making only 14 errors in 462 total chances at the hot corner.

Voted Most Valuable
And then his crowning achievements. Unwanted in Chicago, Hoak was the league's starting third-baseman in the All-Star game and at the end of the 1957 season was voted by Cincy sports writers as the Redlegs' most valuable player.

How come? "A lot of luck and a lot of him," Hoak declared, pointing to Manager Birdie Tebbets.

Tebbetts, the master psychologist, had taken Hoak and molded him into the all-around great player of today. Last spring the Redlegs' skipper reminded Hoak he couldn't get any worse and should adopt certain changes. Hoak agreed.

First, on offense he closed his stance and the base hits rattled and $5.60. Blue Ray paid $13.40, to all fields. Second, on defense he listened to the advice of Coach Jimmy Dykes, a former star third baseman. Dykes advised him to keep his glove down on hot shots down the line to keep them from scooting under his glove into left field. Put them all together and you have the new Hoak — a fine hitter and an excellent third baseman.

No Pressure Applied
Hoak, who gives most of the credit to Tebbetts, explains it this way: "With Birdie no pressure is applied. I've learned to relax on this ball club and that's important. With him it's not like on some other clubs. From some dugouts you hear things like 'Come on, Don, we need that hit. Of course it helps to be playing with really good players, too. I'm just lucky I guess.'"

If Hoak is lucky — so are the Redlegs. In exchange for Hoak, Redlegs' general manager Gabe Paul gave up Elmer Singleton, a 36-year old pitcher who has never helped Chicago, and Ray Jablonski, an erratic fielding third baseman who later moved on to the Giants.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 25 (INS) —When Richard Zanuck talked to me today he sounded exactly like his father did when the energetic Darryl made pictures in the old days. Dick's enthusiasm stems from his first independent assignment from his father, the Leopold-Lob crime, "Compulsion." He will produce "Compulsion" but the title will be changed to "The Crime of the Century."

"I am negotiating with Dean

Stockwell to play Leopold which he created on the stage," said Dick. "Roddy McDowall who played Loeb on the stage has other commitments and I would like to have Fredric March for the Clarence Darrow role."

Of course this will be made for the Darryl F. Zanuck Corporation and Dick plans to start production the end of July. Richard Murphy is completing the story.

They really have the right man to play Boris Morros in Columbia's "Story of Boris Morros"—and I do mean Ernie Borgnine. Not only is there a slight physical resemblance between the two, but Borgnine can look like a European. Morros of course is the Hungarian-born movie and show producer who for years was suspected of being a Red agent when he was secretly working for the FBI.

It's a spy thriller with a background of show business and the deal for Borgnine to play Boris part was made over last week-end.

The picture will be shot in New York which means another extended location jaunt for Borgnine. He was in Europe for months making "The Vikings" with Kirk Douglas.

At long last everyone connected with "The Old Man and the Sea" is happy about it and this includes Spencer Tracy. He now sounds like a press agent about the picture that gave him so much trouble at first. Even Ernest Hemingway who didn't get along with Tracy during their brief encounter loves the re-made version.

The original filming which had to be scrapped cost over $3,000,000. The re-made film of the fishing classic was brought in for around a million and a half. If bad beginnings make for good endings this should be a smash.

One reason Elizabeth Taylor may finish "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" at MGM is because every day Mike Todd saw the rushes with her. He told her, "Honey, if you don't win the Academy Award for 'Raintree County' this year, you're a cinch to win it next year."

Liz always will be reminded of Mike in their daughter who looks exactly like her father except for her eyes which are like Liz' enormous pansy colored orbs.

The day she left for the funeral in Chicago was her worst day. Sedation had been taken from her and the realization of her loss hit her with full force. Bill Lyon, MGM publicity man who has been with Liz since she was a child, says this is the greatest grief she has ever known. This is the first time death has actually touched her.

When Eddie Fisher received the tragic news of Mike Todd's death he was just getting ready to leave for Chicago to attend the Robinson-Basilio fight with Mike. He was in such a state the hotel doctor was called to give him a shot to quiet him.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marlene Dietrich flew to Chicago for Mike Todd's funeral. She was one of the many who mourned his death.

Steve Allen's mother, Belle Montrose, who was recently on Steve's TV show, is seriously ill. Kim Novak did attend Zsa Zsa Gabor's dinner for Premier Trujillo's son but she came by herself.

On April 3 you'll see Zsa Zsa on Matinee Theatre in the famous play "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls."

In a quiet corner at the Luau Milt Rachmil was having dinner with Dorothy Towne, Jack Webb's ex.

Pounds thinner, with a new hairdo and a whole new repertoire of songs Abbe Lincoln is only terrific at Ye Little Club. George Raft, Buddy Bregman and many others were in to see her.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Amcelle Products Are Used Here

The Cumberland Undergarment Company is one of the garment firms participating in Celanese Corporation's program to insure quality in fabrics used by manufacturers.

Maurice Milberg, president of the local firm, said slips and other garments made here from Celanese acetate rays bear the "Safeguard Seal".

This license is issued by Celanese to the converters of fabrics into garments who guarantee to maintain the quality of the company's product.

Milberg pointed out that during a year's time the local plant uses about 1,000,000 pounds of Celanese acetate fabrics.

Fishermen Using Radio Isotopes

The modern miracle of atomic energy is being put to work in the Nile River in Egypt, where fishing has been going on for over 6,000 years. A young Swiss scientist, Dr. Richard Vollenweider of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, is experimenting with the use of a radio isotope (Carbon 14). His aim is to measure the amount of glucose being produced in the algae on the floor of the Nile pools. More glucose in the algae means more food for the fish, and ultimately more fish.

Cord of Thanks

The family of John Earl "Oake" Kerr wishes to express their sincere appreciation to the Fire Department for their speedy and life-saving procedures; to the Red Cross for aiding Elder Powers transportation from England; to the churches of all faiths for their prayers and wonderful thoughts; to the people in the vicinity of the accident who aided by supplying blankets and assistance when it was needed; and to all the friends for their prayers and gestures that abetted us during our trouble. We thank you sincerely and beg God's blessing on each and every one.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the members of the family, friends and neighbors and members of Eagles Aerie 245 for their kind expressions of sympathy. We especially wish to thank Rev. Bruce K. Price, Stein's Funeral Home for their assistance, the pallbearers and those who sent flowers and donated cars for the late Frank Kerr.

His daughter: Audrey Goodman, and Susan Bedea

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father, Harvey Reckley, who died 16 years ago March 26, 1942.

Sometimes it's hard to understand why some things have to be. But in his wisdom God has planned Beyond our powers to see.

Sadly missed by: His Family.

Men Held In Theft From Invalid, 70

GRAFTON — Two men charged with stealing the savings from an elderly invalid were held in $5,000 bail each Tuesday by Magistrate W. C. Lawson.

The magistrate said Everett Eugene DeCosta, 25, and Vance P. Mayle, 18, waived preliminary hearing and were held for action of the Taylor County grand jury on April 14. The magistrate said they were charged with robbery with assault.

Police Chief Robert DeBarr said that more than $500 of the money belonging to H. McWilliams, about 70, was recovered with the arrest of the two men.

The chief said a neighbor, Harvey Merriman, caught and held Mayle until police arrived, while DeCosta was captured a few hours later.

DeBarr described McWilliams as an invalid. He said McWilliams was struck with his own cane in the scuffle when the money was taken from him at his home.

Unions Accused Of Unfair Methods

CHARLESTON — Federal Judge Ben Moore directed Tuesday that a local labor union and the Charleston Building and Construction Trades Council appear April 7 to answer charges of engaging in unfair labor practices.

John C. Getreu, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, brought the charges against the trades council and the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Glaziers of America local.

The charges said the union and council tried to interfere with construction of the Cowles Broadcasting Co. building on Laidley Street here by encouraging strikes and work stoppages by electricians, carpenters and other tradesmen.

Court records showed that charges originally were filed with the labor board by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., a subcontractor on the job. Pittsburgh Plate Glass complained that the union had demanded recognition despite not having been certified as a bargaining representative for Pittsburgh employees.

Communitistic Tactics Subject Of Talk Here

Mr. Eisenhart said yesterday he has made similar talks before church groups, service clubs and parent-teacher associations in the Baltimore County area.

U. S. Government publications and Communist directives are used by the Forum in composing the various documentary talks, said Mr. Eisenhart.

Anna Mathiesen, Ph.D., formerly of Goucher College, is chairman of the research committee of the organization and is assisted by a number of volunteers.

The Forum, which describes itself as being "dedicated to good constitutional government and Americanism," was organized about a year and a half ago by a number of Baltimore residents. It is a non-profit group headed by Dr. Daniel S. Shanahan, who attended the meeting along with Dr. James R. Grabill, who does research work for the group.

They said schools in many instances, at both lower and higher levels, do not give youth the remotest conception of how the "Communist conspiracy" operates.

Stock Market Pulls Back After Nearing 1958 High

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Tuesday shied away from a chance to top its 1958 peak. Prices declined as trading fell off somewhat.

Coppers, which have made '58 highs of their own in recent sessions, fell victim to profit taking. Oils staged a late rally but then lost strength and net gains for the group were mediocre.

Other key stocks, except for scattered issues showed moderate declines. Utilities nudged ahead to a new 1958 high on average.

Wall Street technicians said that the general market again had reached a resistance area represented by the '58 high reached Feb. 4. Supplies of stock for sale at that point make upward progress difficult.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 90 cents to $163.70 and the Dow Jones industrial average fell 2.79 to 450.96.

The 1958 high for AP 60-stock average is $165.00 and the Dow Jones industrial's high is 458.65.

In the AP average the industrial component fell $1.70, and the rails $1.00 while the utilities rose 10 cents.

Behind The News In Business by Leslie Gould

How would Roosevelt have dealt with the menace of Communist Russia if he had lived? That's a question which has been a decade and more of political soothsayers and assayers.

There are no firm answers, of course. One is confined to reasoned guesses, and in this I am aided today by a memo from a man who has given the matter serious thought and the industry of research.

Dr. Frank P. Corrigan of the U. S. delegation to UN, and brother of the brilliant Cleveland attorney who represented Dr. Sam Sheppard at the wordiest murder trial of recent times, sends me the text of FDR's last two notes to Stalin. The wires have been published in Moscow, but not here. I called the State Department in Washington and was told, through the Department's historian, "We just haven't gotten around to that, yet."

It is of historic interest to note that Roosevelt, who believed he could handle Stalin as Ted Williams knows he can hit a sandlot pitcher, found himself at open odds with the Soviet dictator in the last days of his life. There is naked asperity in the wartime President's last notes, as recently revealed in the U. S. S. R.

On April 1, 1945, Roosevelt sent the following:

"Personal and Top Secret for Marshal Stalin from President Roosevelt. I cannot conceal from you the concern with which I view the development of events of mutual interest since our fruitful meeting at Yalta.

"The decisions we reached there were good ones. So far there has been discouraging lack of progress made in carrying out political decisions, particularly those relating to the Polish question. You are aware, of course, that the commission which was set up to insure 'free and unfettered elections' has made no progress."

Having had no reply from Stalin, Roosevelt sent this message on April 5, 1945, just a week before he died. It was the last.

Religion At The UN

Like the Constitution of the United States, the United Nations Charter does not name God. The UN General Assembly, however, opens its meetings with a moment of silence, so that each delegate may offer his own private prayer. The meditation room in the General Assembly Building is open for delegates, employees and visitors of all faiths.

On The Line by Bob Considine

There is a bright side to the case of the near "take over" of a small investment trust.

Thanks to the alertness of the trust's custodian—one of the large New York banks—the Bankers Trust Company—and prompt action by the SEC:

The assets of the trust—Jefferson Custodian Fund—are intact, with the market value for the fund $4.40 a share.

Apparently the only person out is Frank M. Cryan Sr.

Cryan is out as a partner in the Stock Exchange firm bearing his name—McLaughlin, Cryan and Company.

The management contracts for the trust held by a firm he and his family controlled have been terminated.

Payment was stopped on two cashier's checks for $261,000 drawn on a small upstate bank. Payment was stopped, according to the SEC, "when, it seems, no funds had been deposited by the purchasers of the stock to cover the amount of the checks."

The stopping of the payment saved the small bank from any loss.

The checks went to Cryan and his family's controlling stock interest in the management firm, Jefferson Research Foundation. The SEC in its affidavit said the research firm only had assets of $2,300. With the management contract terminated, a good question is, what is its worth?

Cryan was one of the trust's founders and prior to Jan. 31, last, was its president. The research firm managed the investments and another firm controlled by Cryan—Frank M. Cryan Company, Inc.—was the underwriter of the trust's shares. The Canada from her native Poland contract of that firm also is eight years ago. The other day terminated, according to the SEC, she won a public speaking contest in the offering prospectus for youngsters.

The trust's shares, among those listed as a member of a "Board of Advisors" is Cryan's partner in the Stock Exchange firm—John F. McLaughlin. With his picture, there is this:

"Mr. McLaughlin is a member of the New York Stock Exchange firm of McLaughlin, Cryan and Company, having formerly been, since 1943, a member of its predecessor firm, McLaughlin, Reuss and Company. He is a financial writer and analyst and is an adviser to fraternal, industrial and institutional investors, having had 30 years experience with Stock Exchange member firms."

The firm, McLaughlin, Cryan, for several years was financial adviser to Penn Texas Corporation, and while receiving a fee for such service ran large advertisements recommending the company. The Penn-Texas stock then was around $19 and $20. It is now around $4 and has recently been as low as $2.87 1/2.

The trust is in the hands of a temporary receiver, named by the U. S. District Court. He is Thomas J. Ahearn Jr., and in a letter to shareholders writes:

"Prompt action by the Bankers Trust Company, as custodian of the Fund, and by the Securities and Exchange Commission, has prevented any loss of value consequent upon the attempted mismanagement of the Fund, as alleged by the Securities and Exchange Commission."

The Fund has a cash balance of $420,558.53 and securities at market value $866,074.63.

Extra Paving In Creek To Cost $300,000

Bed To Have Rock Or Concrete Base

The price tag for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project will be boosted about $300,000 by extra paving needed in the bed of Wills Creek between Valley and Market streets.

The bed of the creek is to be paved for about 700 feet and the work is estimated to add about $302,000 to the contract of the E. J. Albrecht Company, which is completing Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek phase of the $18,000,000-plus project.

The extra paving means that the entire bed of the creek will be paved, except for several portions which have a solid rock bottom.

Section 1, from the Narrows to the Zimmerla Machine Shops, was paved along the entire length. From there, the bed of the creek was to be excavated to grade.

When the creek bed excavation reached a point just below the Valley Street Bridge, it was found that the rock strata would not provide a satisfactory base, so plans were revised to provide a paved bottom to about 300 feet below the Baltimore Street Bridge.

From there, for a distance of about 700 feet to where Wills Creek flows into the Potomac River, paving will not be needed, as solid rock will provide a satisfactory base.

The cost of the extra paving is a government obligation and will not add to the city's share of the flood protection project.

Primary Voting Will Feature Contrasts

Many Democrats On State Ballot

The May 20 primary election in Allegany County will constitute a study in contrasts.

On the Republican ticket there will be only two candidates listed for state-wide office and 51 for county positions. The Democrat ballot, on the other hand, will list 14 for state-wide offices, five for the seat in the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District, but only 12 for county positions.

The one GOP state contest is of a nominal nature. It pits U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, seeking a second six-year term, against Henry J. Laque Jr. of Anne Arundel County.

Four Unopposed

Three other Republican candidates for state offices face no primary opposition. They are Rep. James P. S. Devereux, Baltimore County, for governor; Frederick Mayor John A. Derr, for state comptroller, and Robert A. Wallace, of Montgomery County for attorney general. Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde of Montgomery County also faces no primary opposition in his bid for a fourth term in Congress.

The only unopposed Democrat for state-wide office is Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert of Howard County, who seeks reelection.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, who seeks the Democrat nomination for governor, has nominal opposition from three men. They are Morgan L. Amalio, Baltimore; Bruce S. Campbell, Baltimore County, and Joseph A. Phillips, Baltimore. Mr. Campbell withdrew in favor of Mr. Tawes but the attorney general ruled that his withdrawal was too late for removal of his name from the ballot.

Three Democrats are contesting for the nomination for state comptroller. They are State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, Calvert County; Sidney London and Joseph L. Manning, both Baltimore City. Seven Democrats are in the running for the nomination for the U. S. Senate. They are James Bruce, Carroll County; Thomas D'Alessandro, mayor of Baltimore; Andrew J. Easter, Baltimore; William F. Fader Jr., Montgomery County; Clarence D. Long, Baltimore County; George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County; and Alden A. Potter, Montgomery County.

Five For Congress

Five Democrats are in the running for the nomination for the House of Representatives in the 86th Congress. They are John R. Foley, the 1956 nominee; David A. Heller, James H. Mann and Richard Henry Speidel, all of Montgomery County, and Edward D. Storm, Frederick County.

On the county ticket, the 51 GOP candidates will include 16 for the House of Delegates, 12 for county commissioner, 14 for the State Central Committee, five for judges of Orphans Court, two for sheriff and two for state senator. Four other Republicans are unopposed in both the primary and general elections.

The Democratic county ticket will include only seven candidates for the six positions on the State Central Committee and five for the three nominations for county commissioners. Seven Democratic candidates for the state convention will be certified automatically as they face no opposition. Five candidates for the House of Delegates and the one candidate for sheriff also will be certified to the general election without primary opposition.

Youths In Car Drag Man Along Piedmont Street

A Westernport man was painfully injured late Monday night when he was dragged about 150 feet along West Fairview Street in Piedmont by a group of youths in an auto.

Paul Roderick, about 25, of Wood Street, was treated by a Piedmont physician for lacerations about his chest and legs.

About 12:30 a. m. yesterday Chief of Police Charles Spiker of Piedmont apprehended five Keyser youths in connection with the incident.

Charged with felonious assault by auto, the youths, ranging in age from 18 to 19, were taken before Justice of the Peace Madelyn Bazzle at Keyser yesterday afternoon for a hearing which was continued until today at 4:15 p. m. in order that the victim could contact a witness.

Chief Spiker said Roderick was standing along West Fairview Street about midnight Monday talking with a friend in a parked car.

The car with the five Keyser youths pulled up near the parked car and one of the occupants called to Roderick, who walked over to the car.

He laid his arm on the door to ask what they wanted. Meanwhile, one of the passengers in the back seat, police said, grabbed Roderick by his arms and the driver of the car drove along the street, dragging the victim for about 150 feet before he was released.

Kenneth Shultz, taxi driver, saw Roderick lying in the street and notified police.

As a special event last year the club gave a new 1957 penny, inserted in an album to all babies born in local hospitals during National Coin Week.

The club will continue the event this year and in case a mother that gave birth to a child during Coin Week last year should do the same this year, the baby will be given a bonus present.

Mrs. John Malone and Mrs. John Carroll have been asked to take charge of the event and to make the coin album presentations at Memorial Hospital to all babies born during the week of April 21.

Auxiliary Plant Will Meet All Hospital Needs

Snow Shows Choice Right, Mayor Says

The power failures which accompanied last week's disastrous snow would not have affected services at Memorial Hospital, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

He said the auxiliary power plant installed in Memorial Hospital over a year ago will meet the full electrical needs of the institution within seven seconds if outside power ever fails.

Mayor Eves, who is an ex-officio member of the hospital's board of governors, said that body considered several types of emergency generating equipment before installing the diesel-powered unit which cost over $20,000.

Reject Smaller Plants

He said the first idea was to buy a unit capable of maintaining light and power equipment in the operating rooms.

One of the board members, he recalled, asked how patients could be taken to the operating rooms for emergency treatment if there were no power to operate elevators, and what would happen to refrigerated food if the power failure continued for several hours.

The final decision, he said, called for securing an auxiliary power plant capable of meeting all needs for an extended period, since electricity is required to operate oxygen machines, various vital equipment and to control the power plant.

The hospital's power plant starts automatically if outside power fails and is capable of meeting normal power loads within seven seconds.

The equipment is tested each Saturday morning.

He said the wisdom of selecting a power plant to meet all of the hospital's needs was demonstrated during last week's heavy snow, which toppled power lines in several sections of Maryland. Several Maryland hospitals were able to light accident, operating and delivery rooms by emergency generating plants but had to use candles elsewhere.
